

[54] PENILE TUMESCENCE MONITOR

[75] Inventors: Frederick W. Holler, Jr.; Donald R. Wiedeman, both of Cherry Hill, N.J.

[73] Assignee: Event Systems, Inc., Moorestown, N.J.

[] Term: 14 Years

[21] Appl. No.: 951,279

[22] Filed: Oct. 13, 1978

[51] Int. Cl. D24-02

[52] U.S. Cl. D24/8; D24/17

[58] Field of Search 128/774, 782; D24/8, D24/17, 29; D10/46, 75

[56]

References Cited

U.S. PATENT DOCUMENTS

D. 237,982	9/1975	Hoogesteger	D24/8
D. 239,007	3/1976	Kato	D10/75
D. 248,628	7/1978	Schwartz	D10/75
3,417,743	12/1968	Carrera	128/79
4,103,678	8/1978	Karacan et al.	128/774

Primary Examiner—Bernard Ansher
Attorney, Agent, or Firm—Duffield & Lehrer

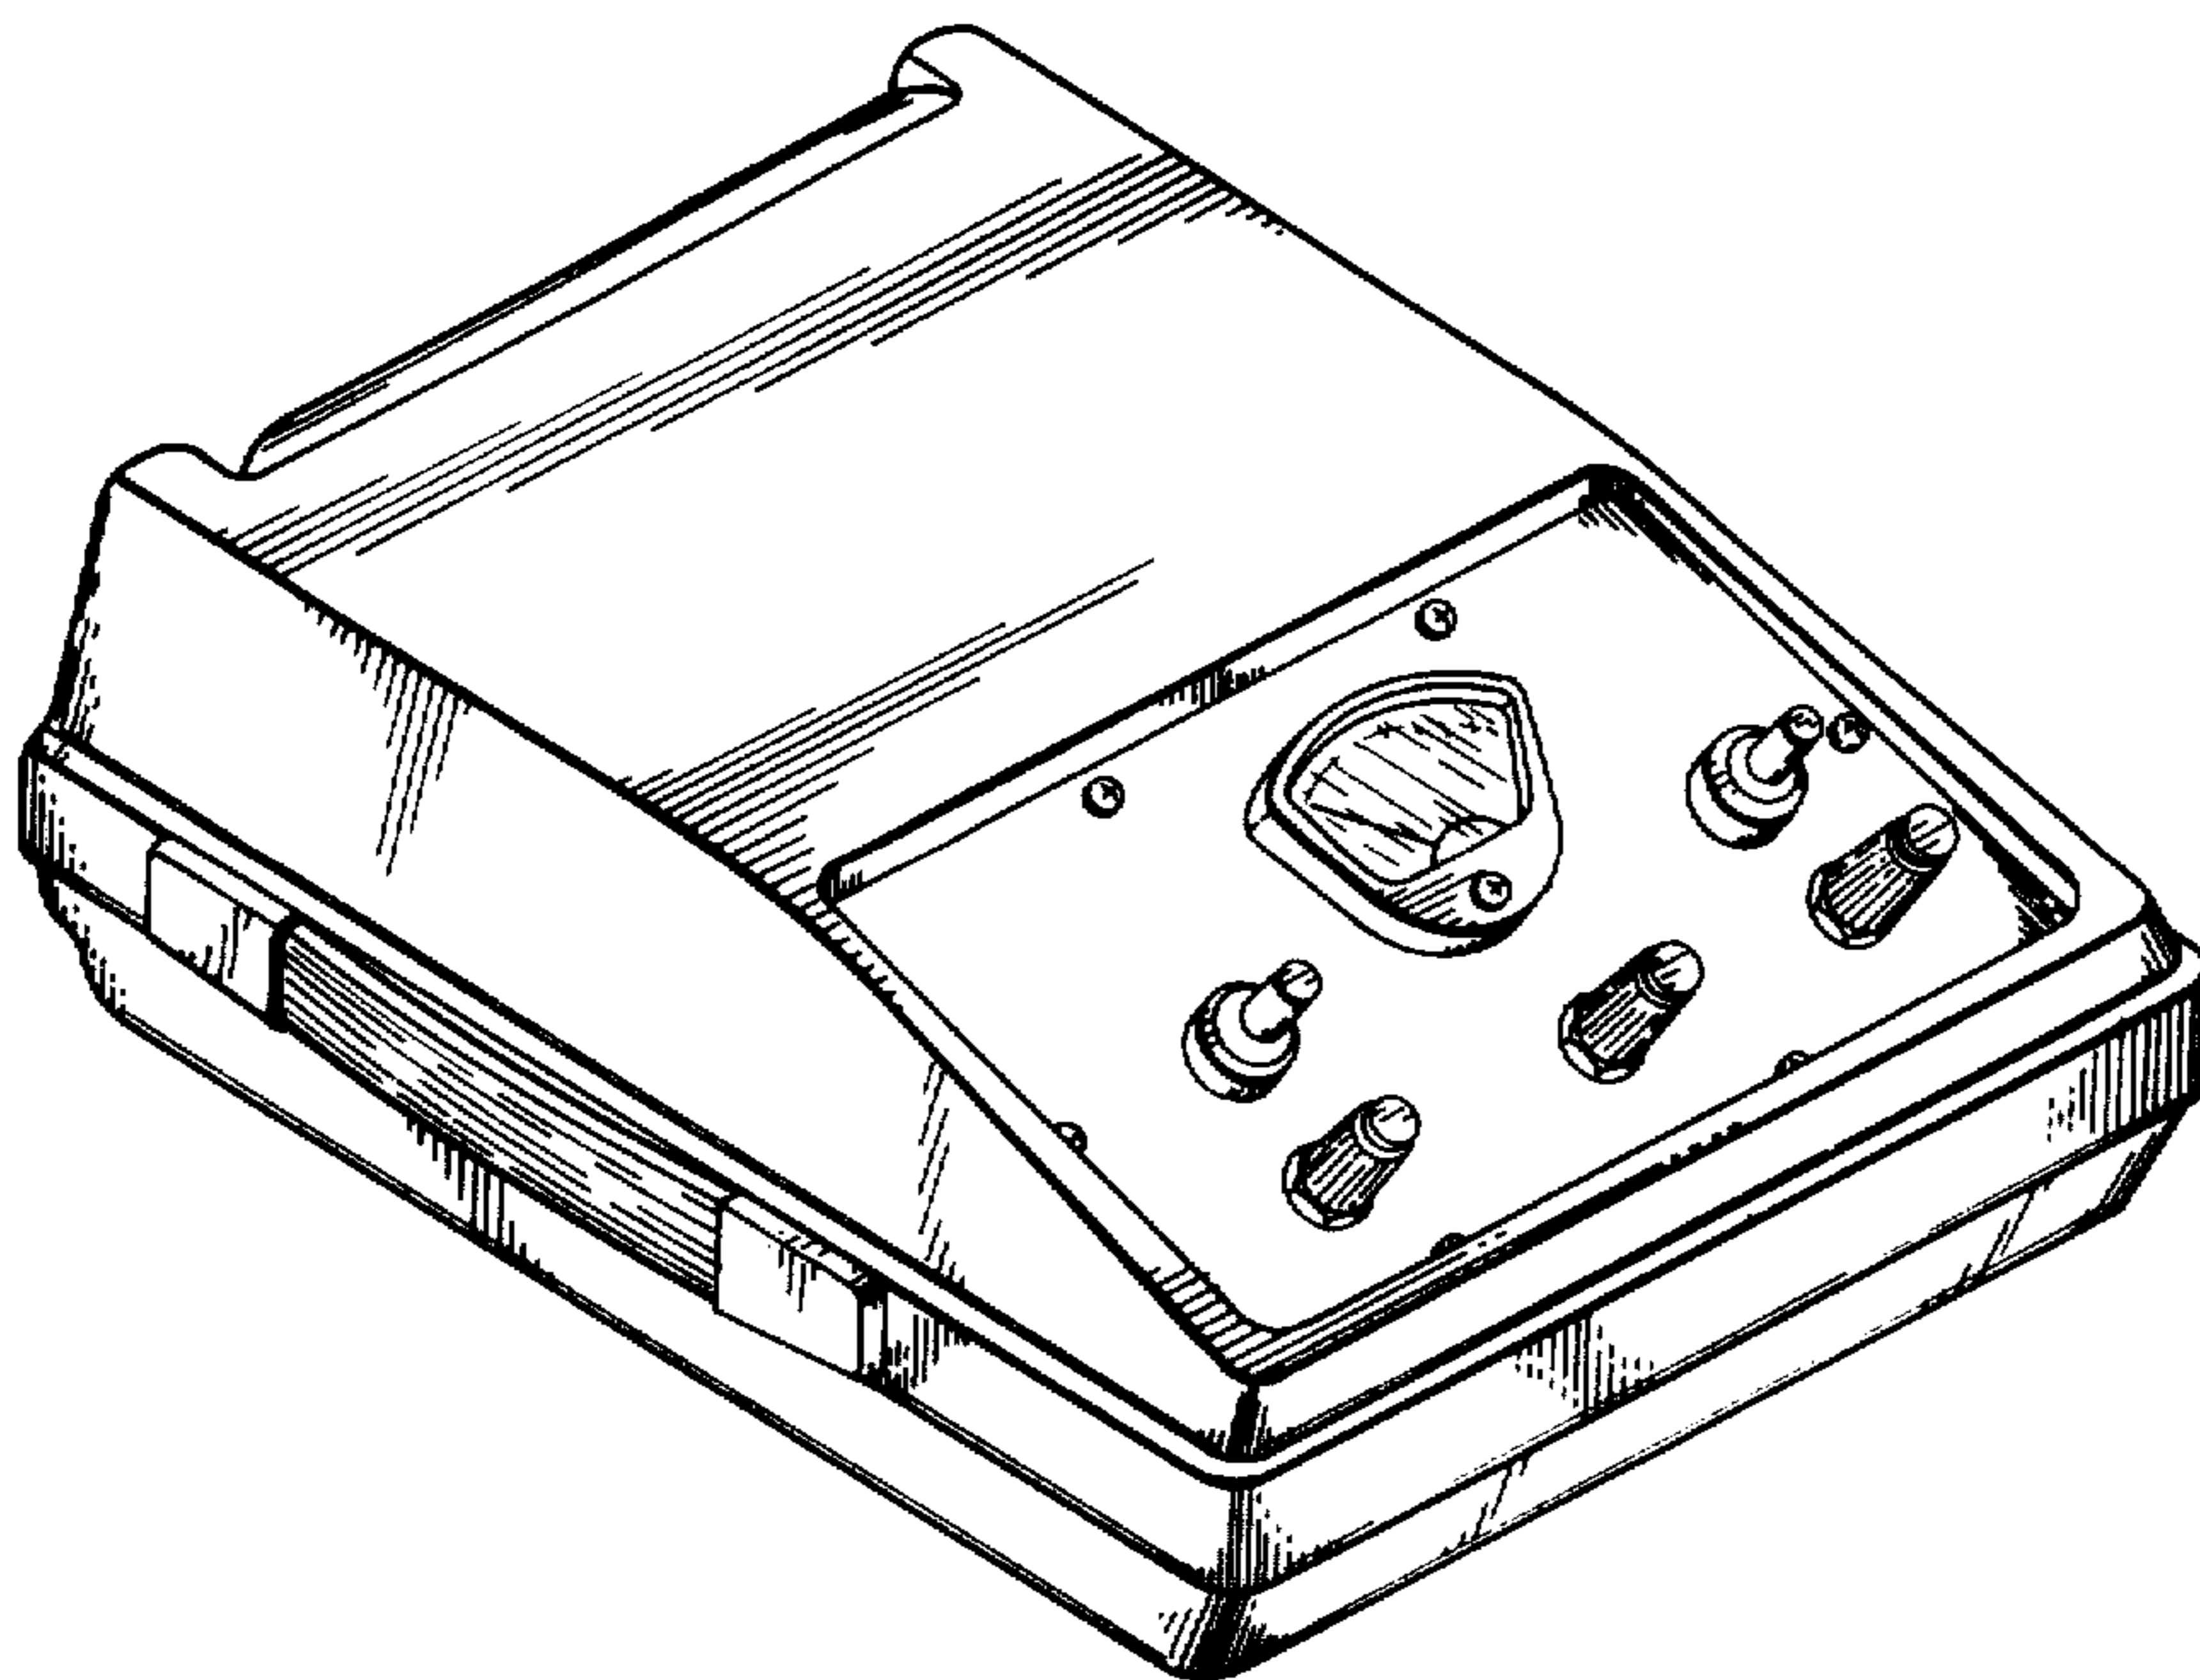

[57]

CLAIM

The ornamental design for a penile tumescence monitor, substantially as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a perspective view of a penile tumescence monitor showing our new design; FIG. 2 is a rear elevational view thereof; FIG. 3 is a right side elevational view thereof, and FIG. 4 is a bottom plan view thereof.

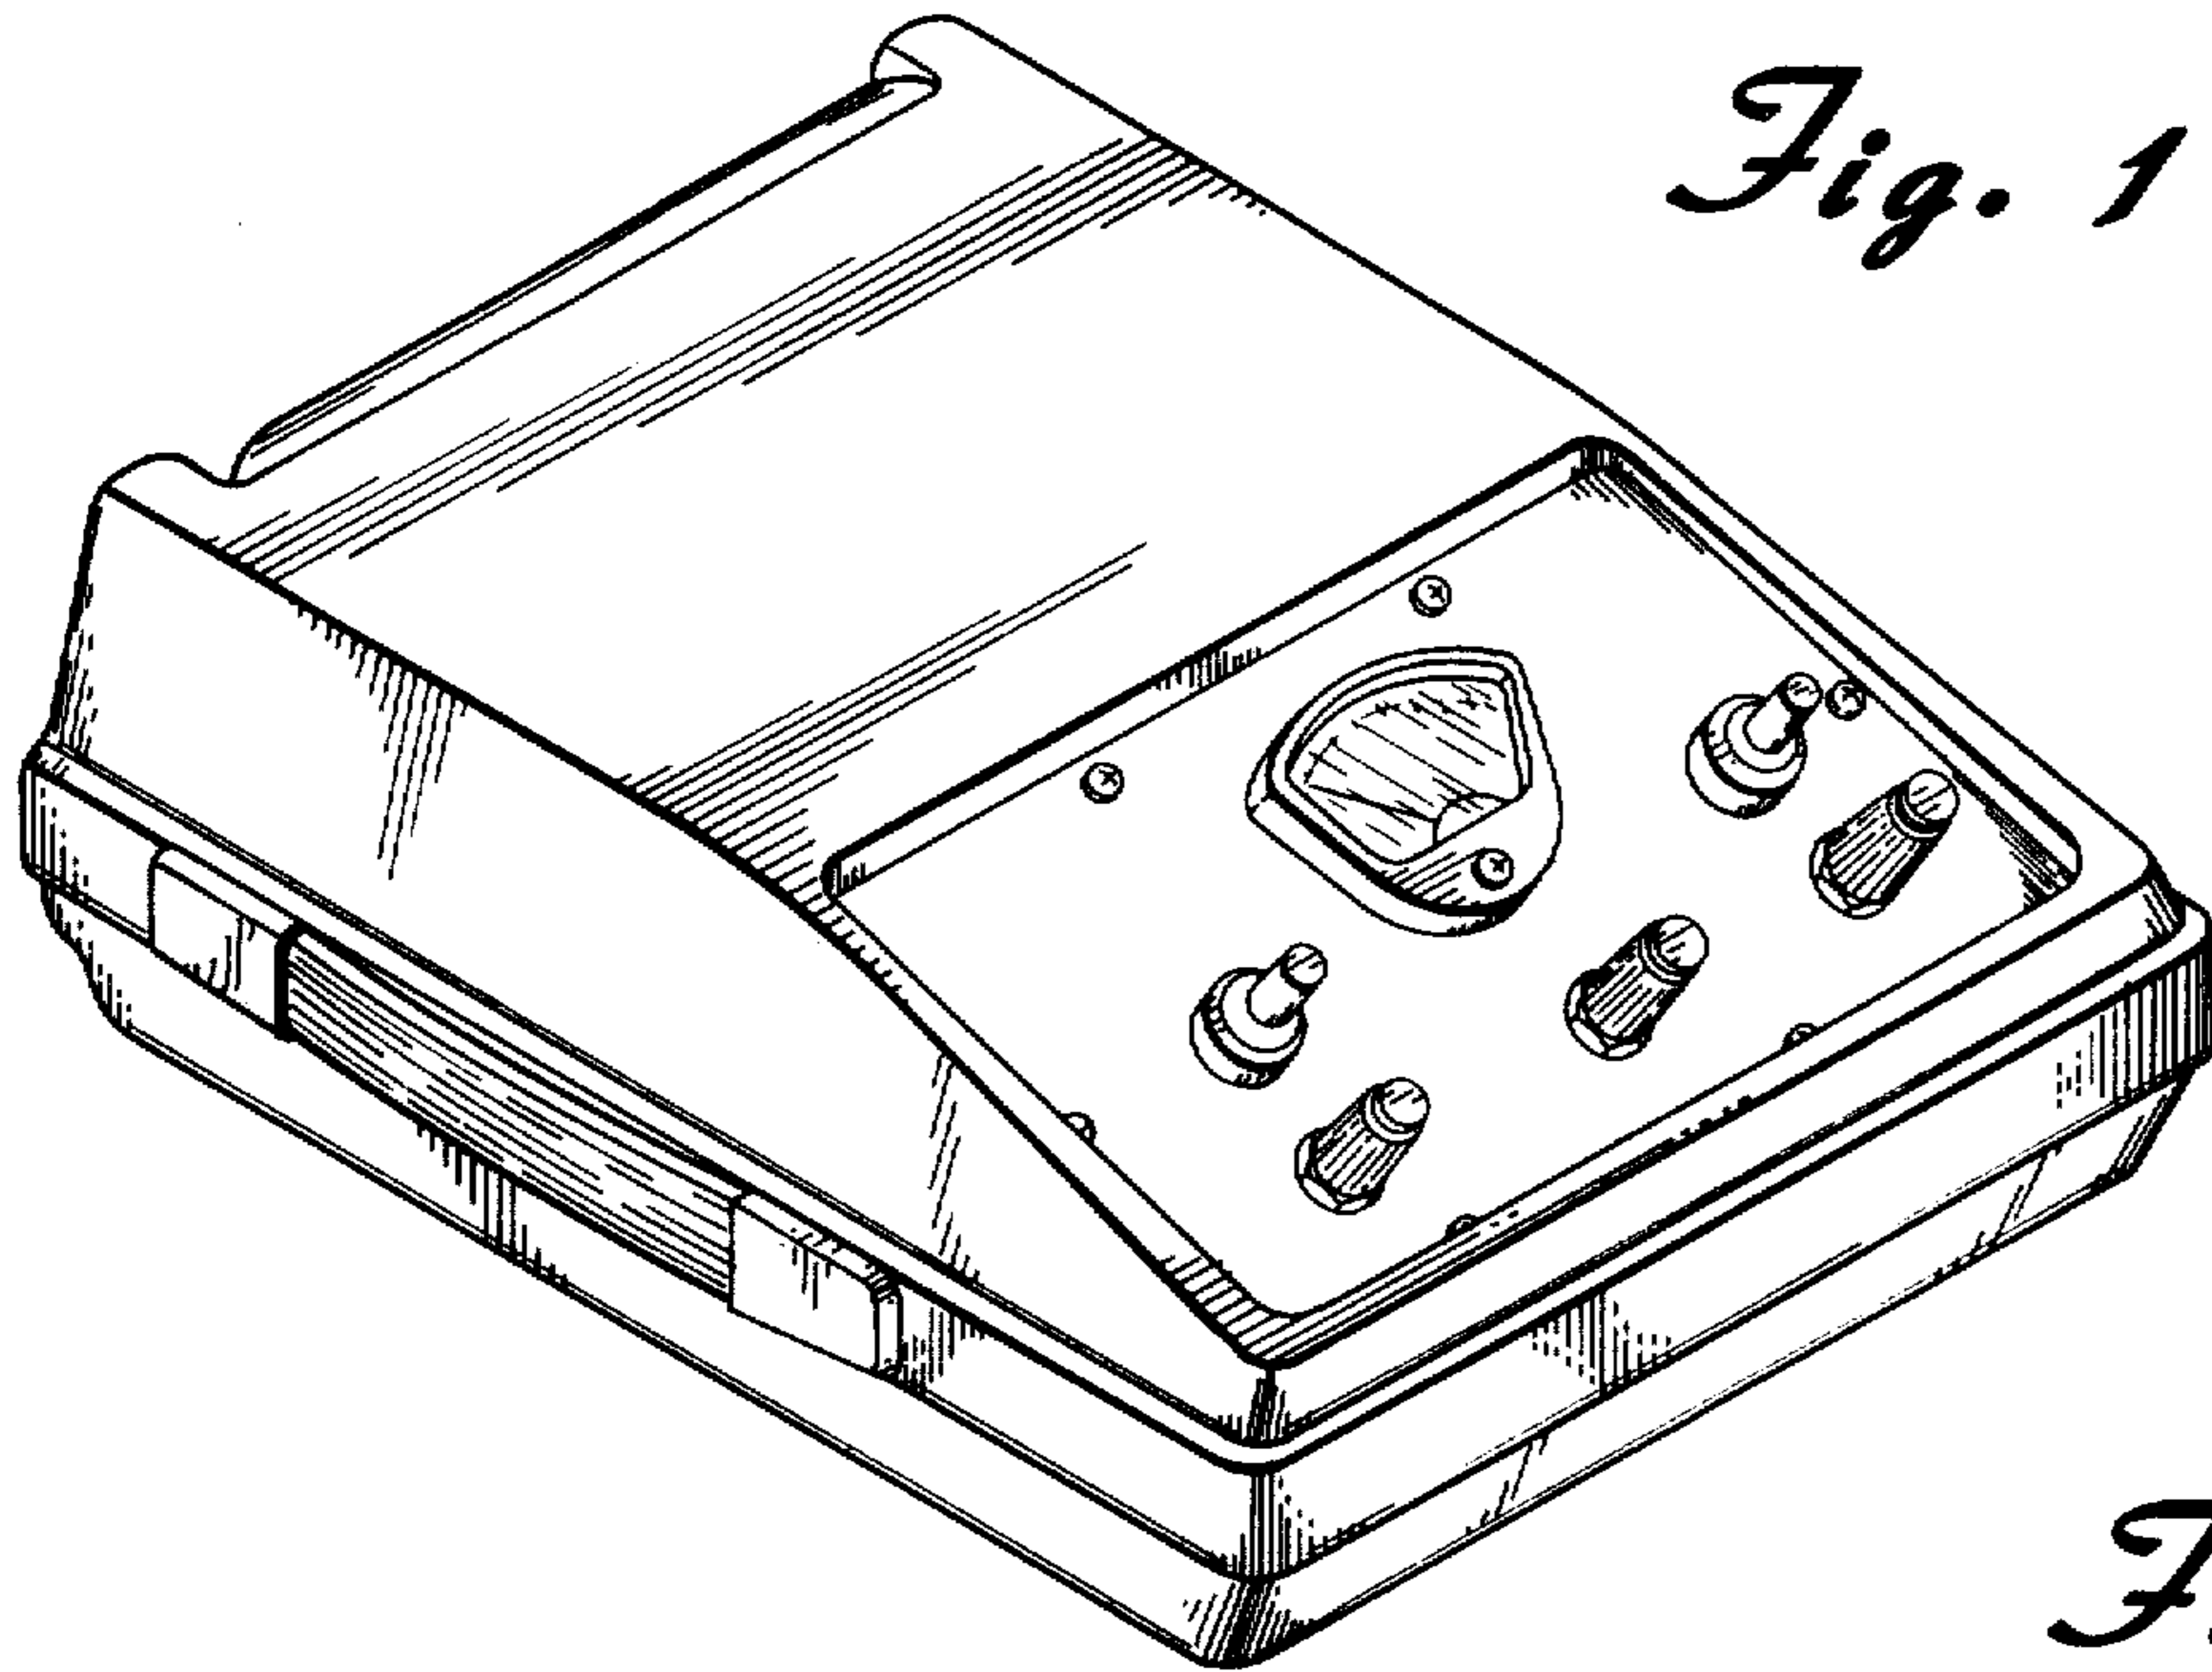

Fig. 1

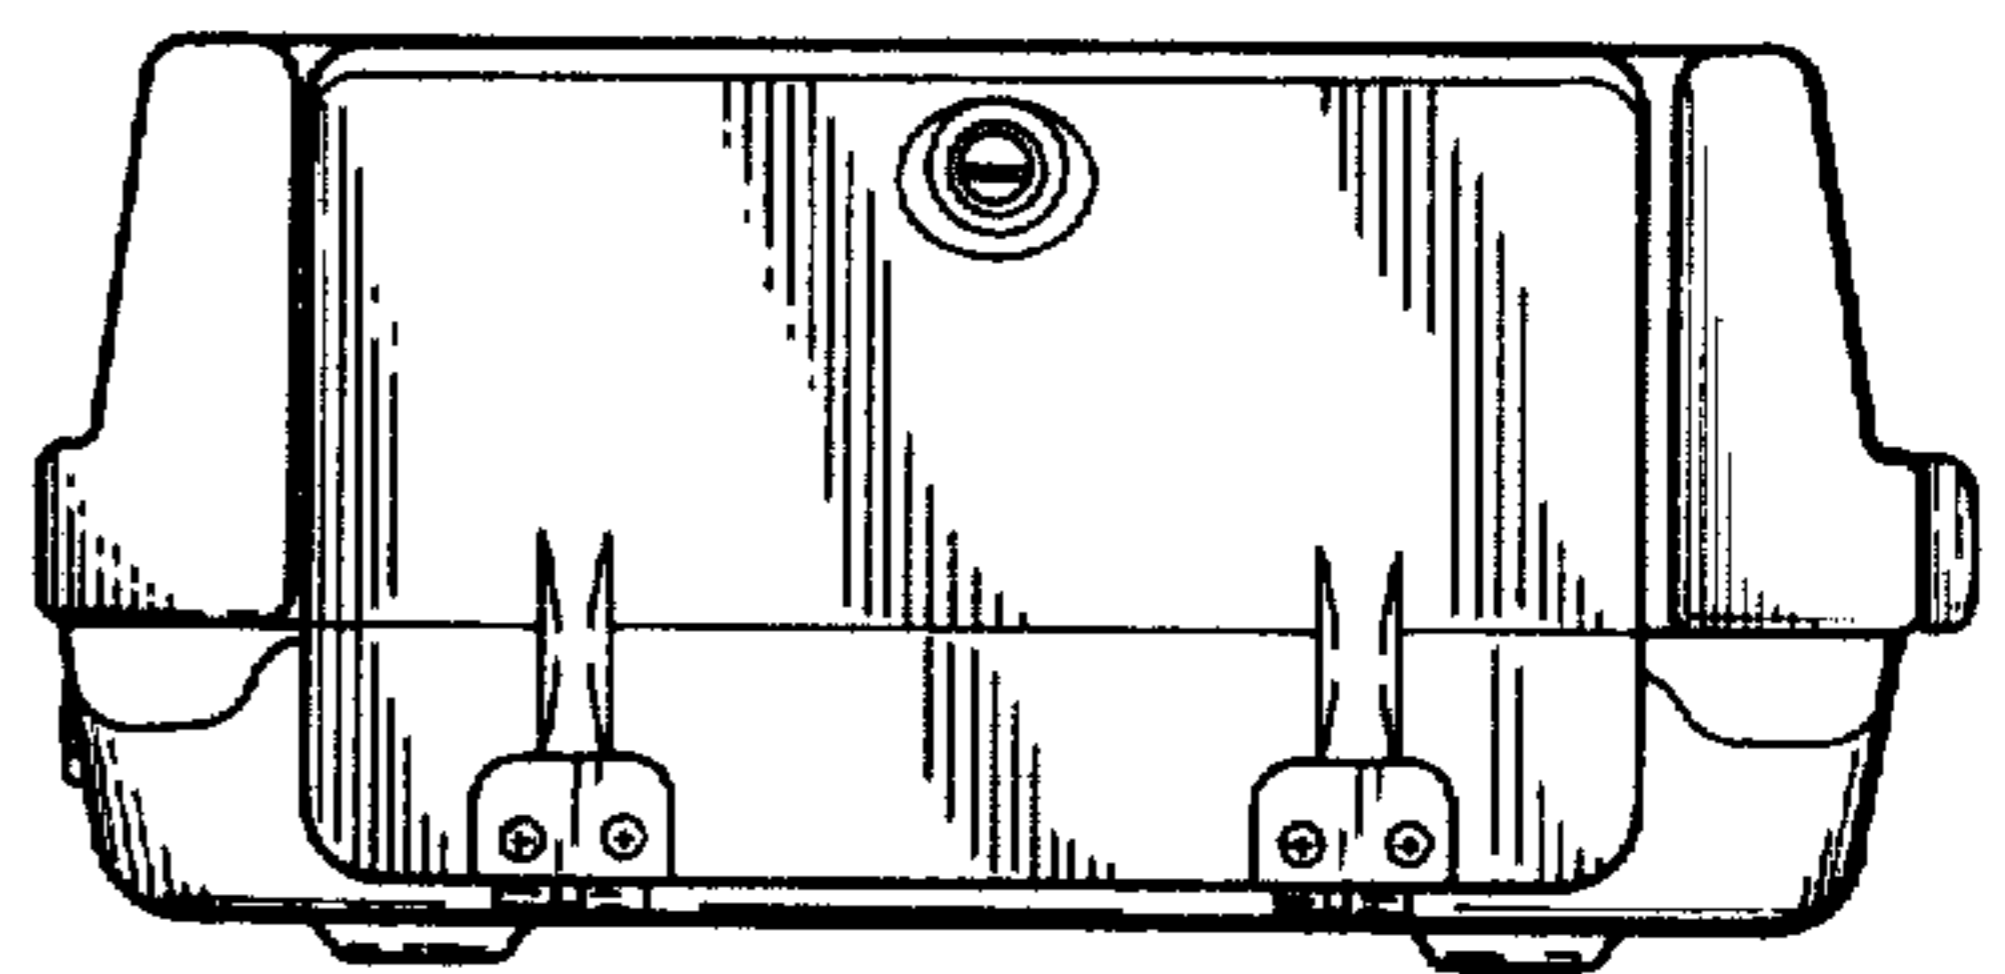

Fig. 2

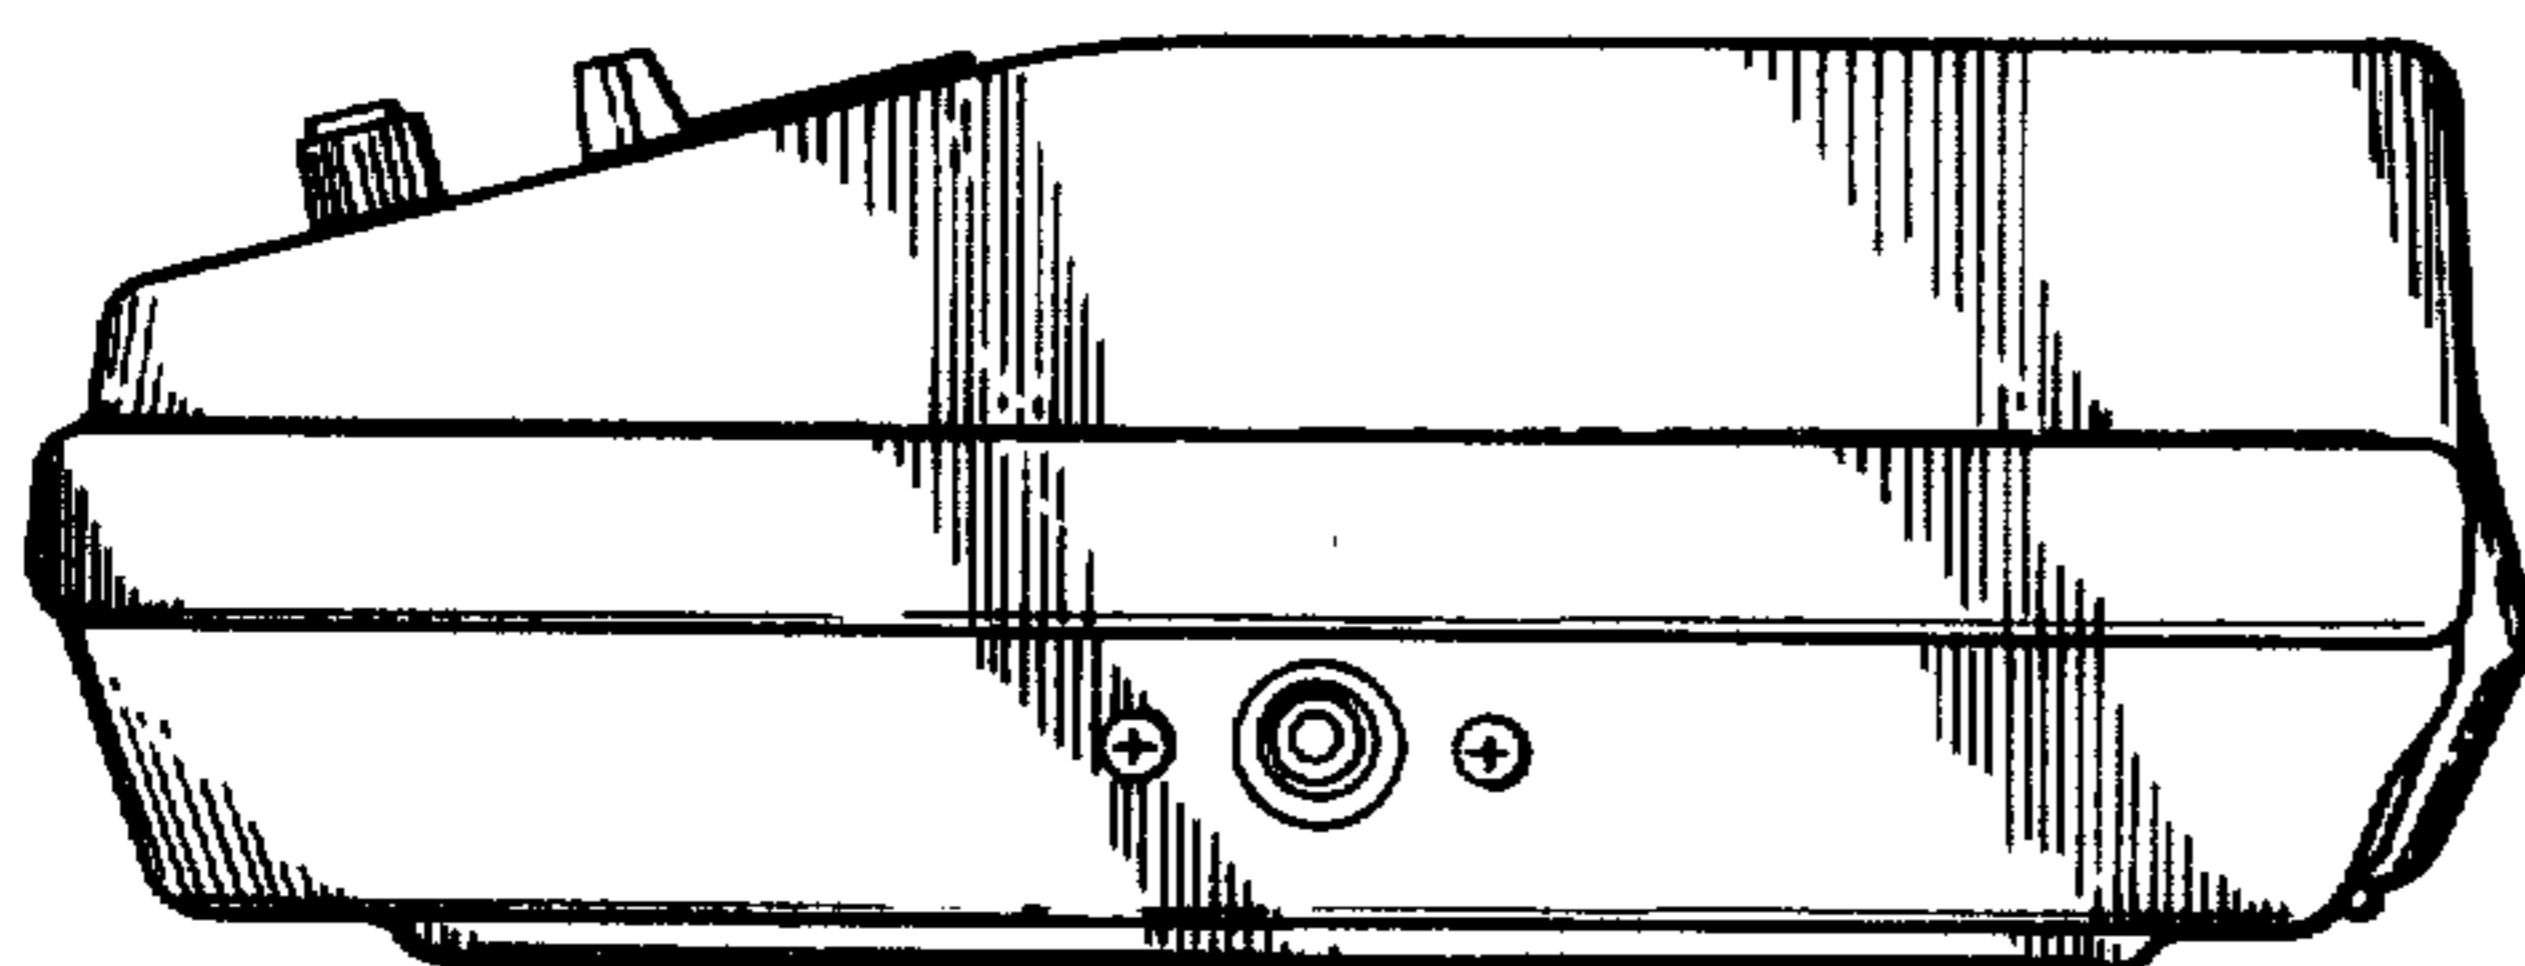

Fig. 3

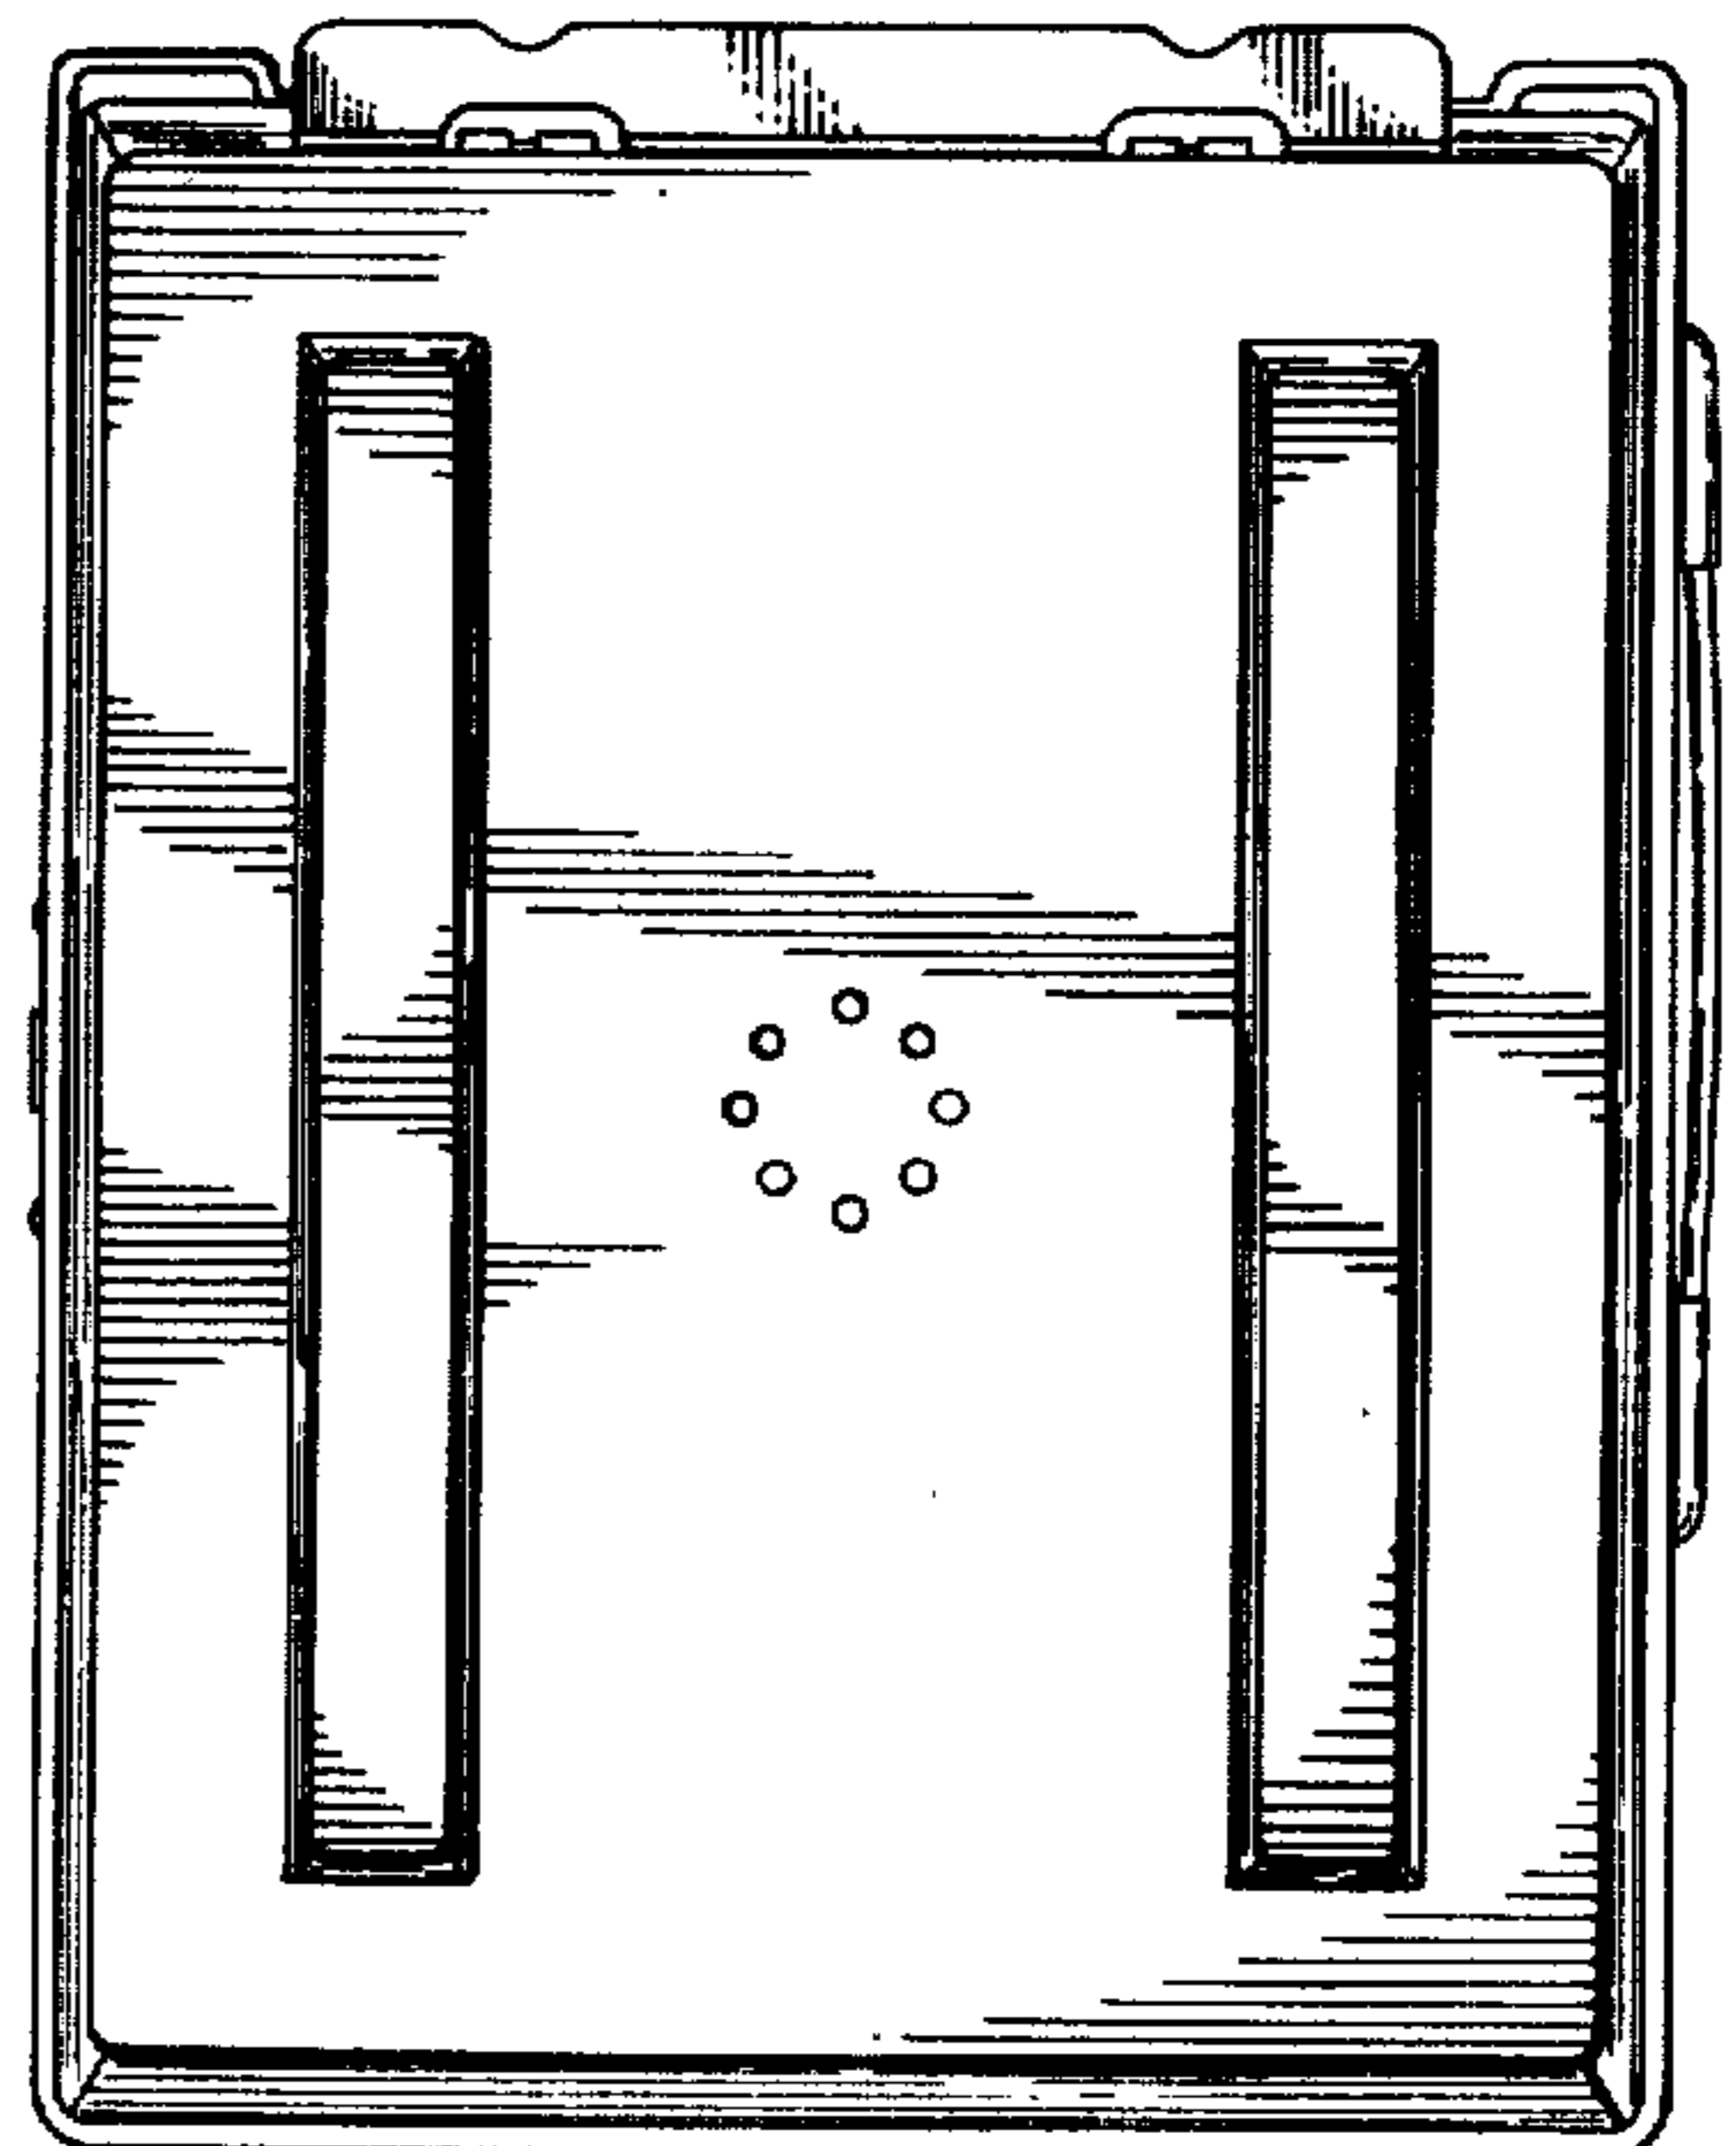

Fig. 4