[57] CLAIM

The ornamental design for a tablet-arm chair, substantially as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a perspective view, looking from above and from the rear and one side at about a 45° angle, of a tablet-arm chair embodying my new design.

FIG. 2 is a perspective view thereof, looking down from one side and the front.

FIG. 3 is a perspective view thereof, looking down from above and from the front at about 45°.

FIG. 4 is a bottom view of another modified form of tablet-arm chair also embodying my new design.

FIG. 5 is a perspective view, looking down from above and from one side and the front of the tablet-arm chair of FIG. 4.

FIG. 6 is a perspective view of the tablet-arm chair of FIGS. 4 and 5, looking from the rear and one side and from above.

The design is characterized by a vertically extending single tablet arm support leg which is disposed beyond the front edge of the seat member, in combination with a seat frame member, wherein the forward end of the seat frame member curves downwardly and blends with the tablet arm support leg, all as best illustrated in FIGS. 1, 3 and 6.
