

[54] ESCAPE SYMBOL

[76] Inventors: Robert N. Hellmer, 538 New York Ave., Dunedin, Fla. 33528; Robert J. Smallwood, 7250 Bandera Rd., San Antonio, Tex. 78238

[] Term: 14 Years

[21] Appl. No.: 828,376

[22] Filed: Feb. 11, 1986

Related U.S. Application Data

[62] Division of Ser. No. 549,390, Nov. 7, 1983, Pat. No. Des. 287,514.

[52] U.S. Cl. D20/30; D20/31

[58] Field of Search D20/14, 24, 25, 30, D20/31, 40, 11; D8/404

References Cited

U.S. PATENT DOCUMENTS

- D. 87,584 8/1932 Seibert D20/14
- D. 248,425 7/1978 Darrell D8/404 X
- D. 256,928 9/1980 Ballay D20/11

OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Montgomery Ward 1982 Christmas Values Catalog-- front cover--Smurf at lower right.

Montgomery Ward 1982 Christmas Values Catalog--p. 453--Bugs Bunny.

Symbol Sourcebook--Dreyfuss--McGraw Hill Book Co., New York, 1972--p. 140--Emergency Exit, p. 34.

Primary Examiner--Catherine E. Kemper

Attorney, Agent, or Firm--Jack Darrell

CLAIM

[57]

The ornamental design for an escape symbol, or the like, substantially as shown and described.

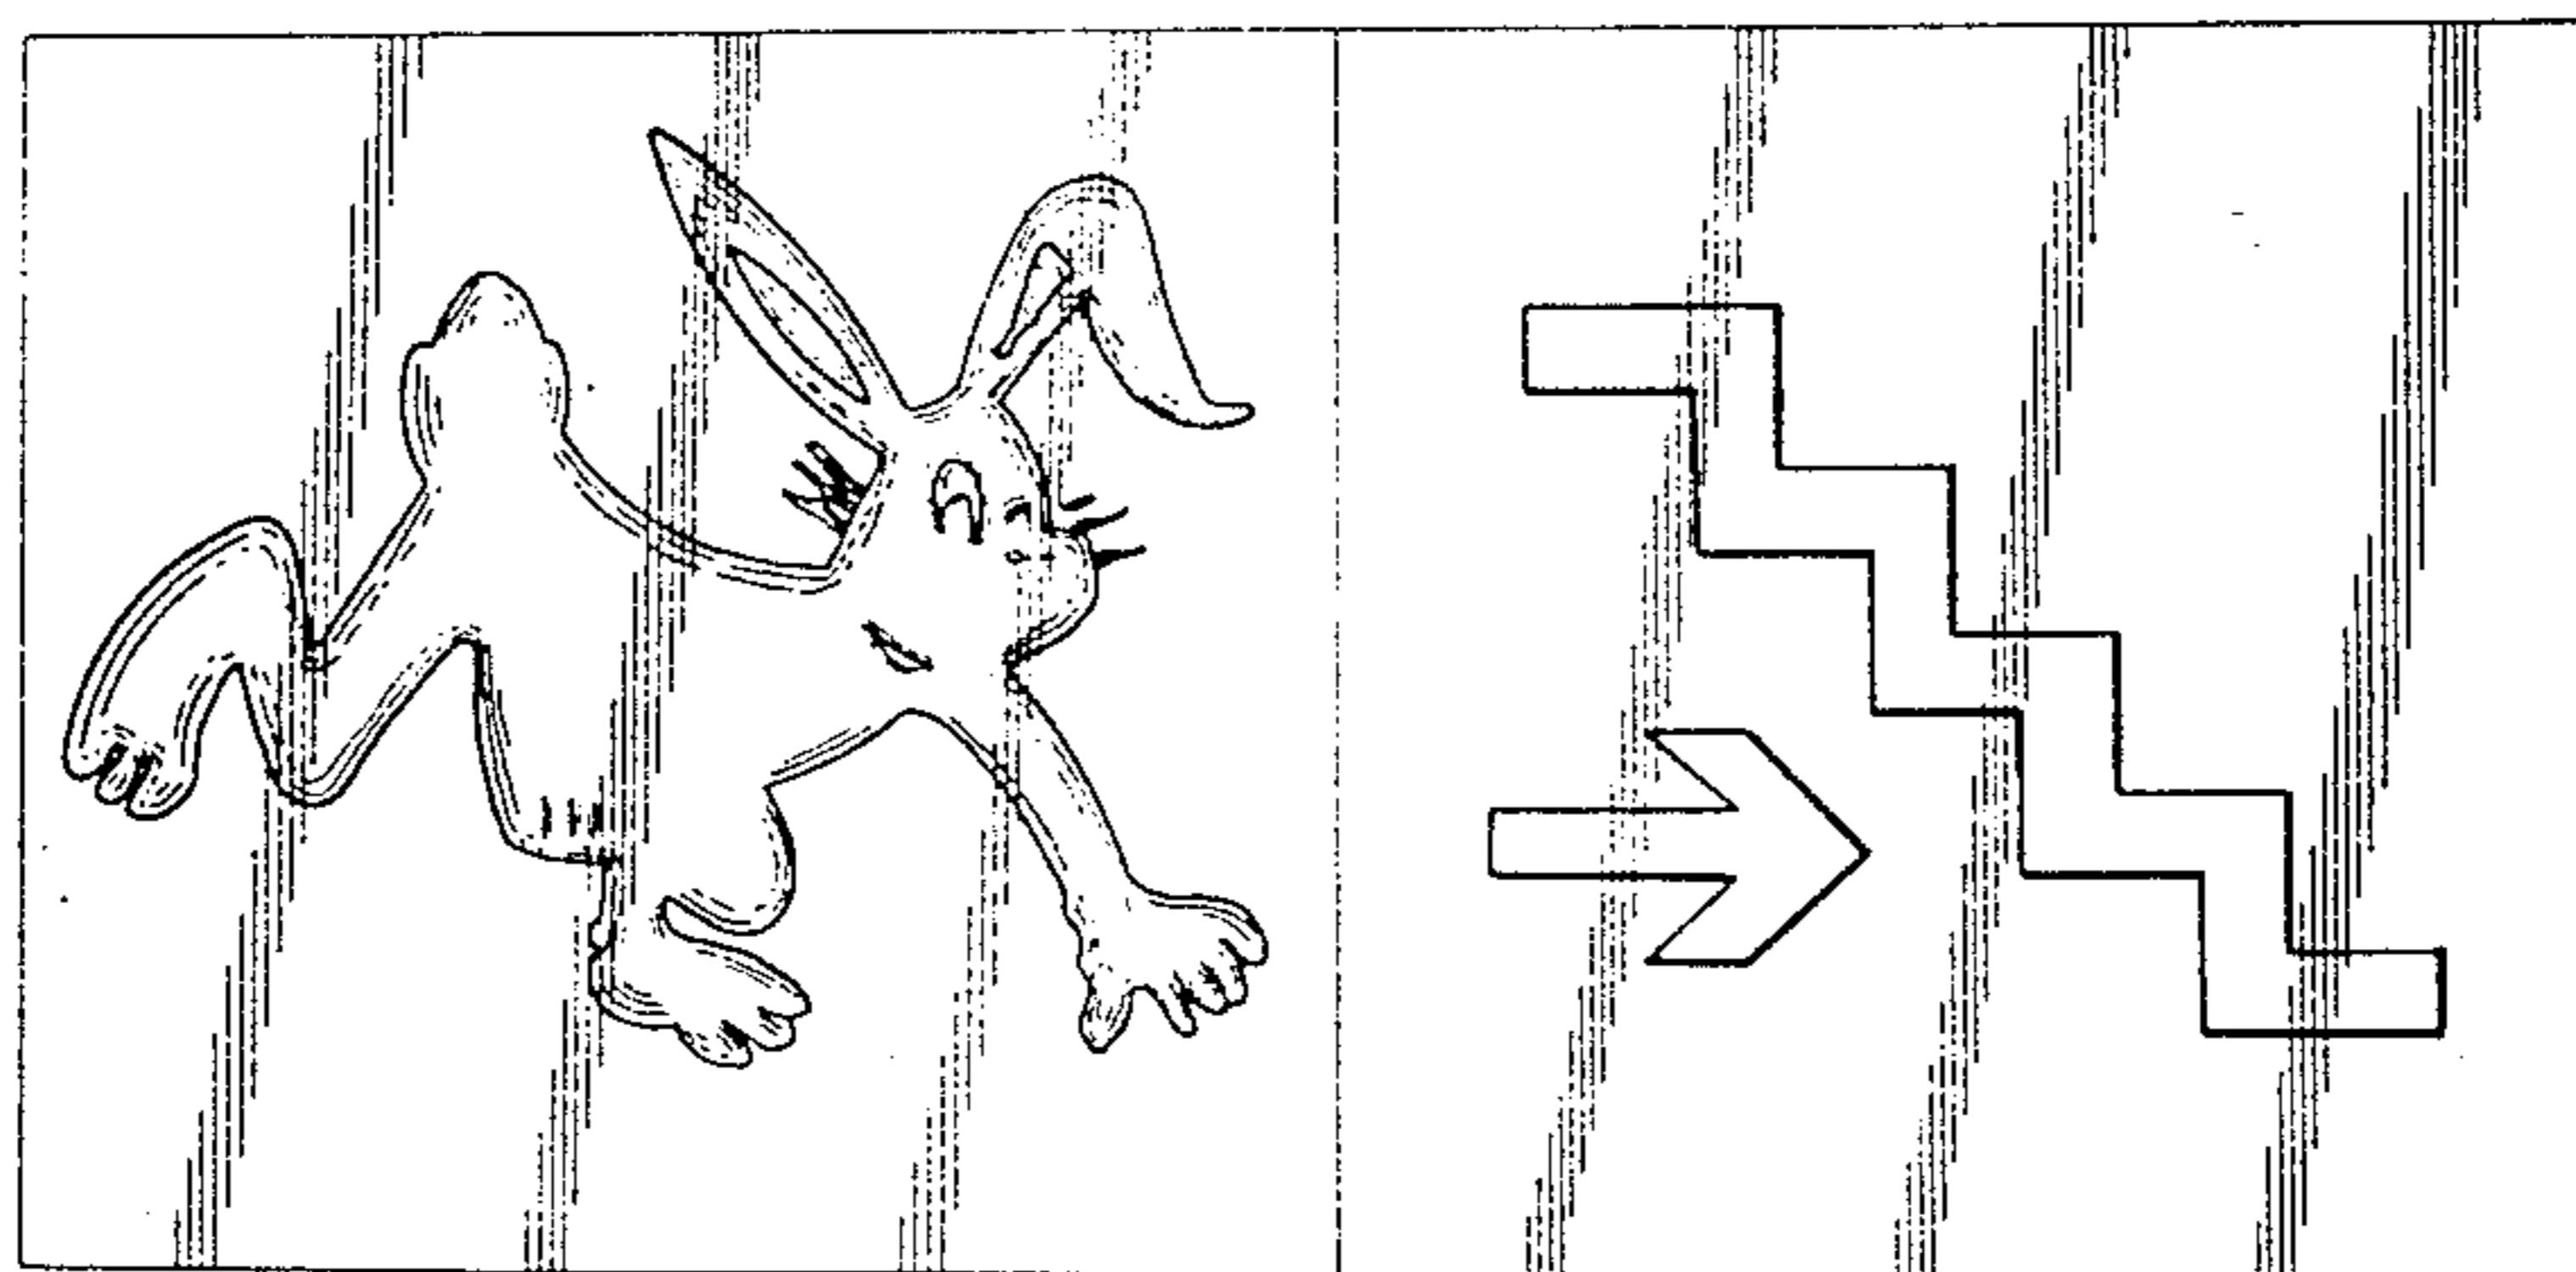

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a front elevational view of an escape symbol, showing our new design;

FIG. 2 is a front elevational view of a second embodiment of an escape symbol;

FIG. 3 is a front elevational view of a third embodiment of our new design of FIG. 1, wherein the symbol for a human figure has been replaced with a cartoon character, it being understood that any number of other cartoon characters would work just as well, all other graphical material being substantially like that of FIG. 1.

The sign is of no substantial thickness.

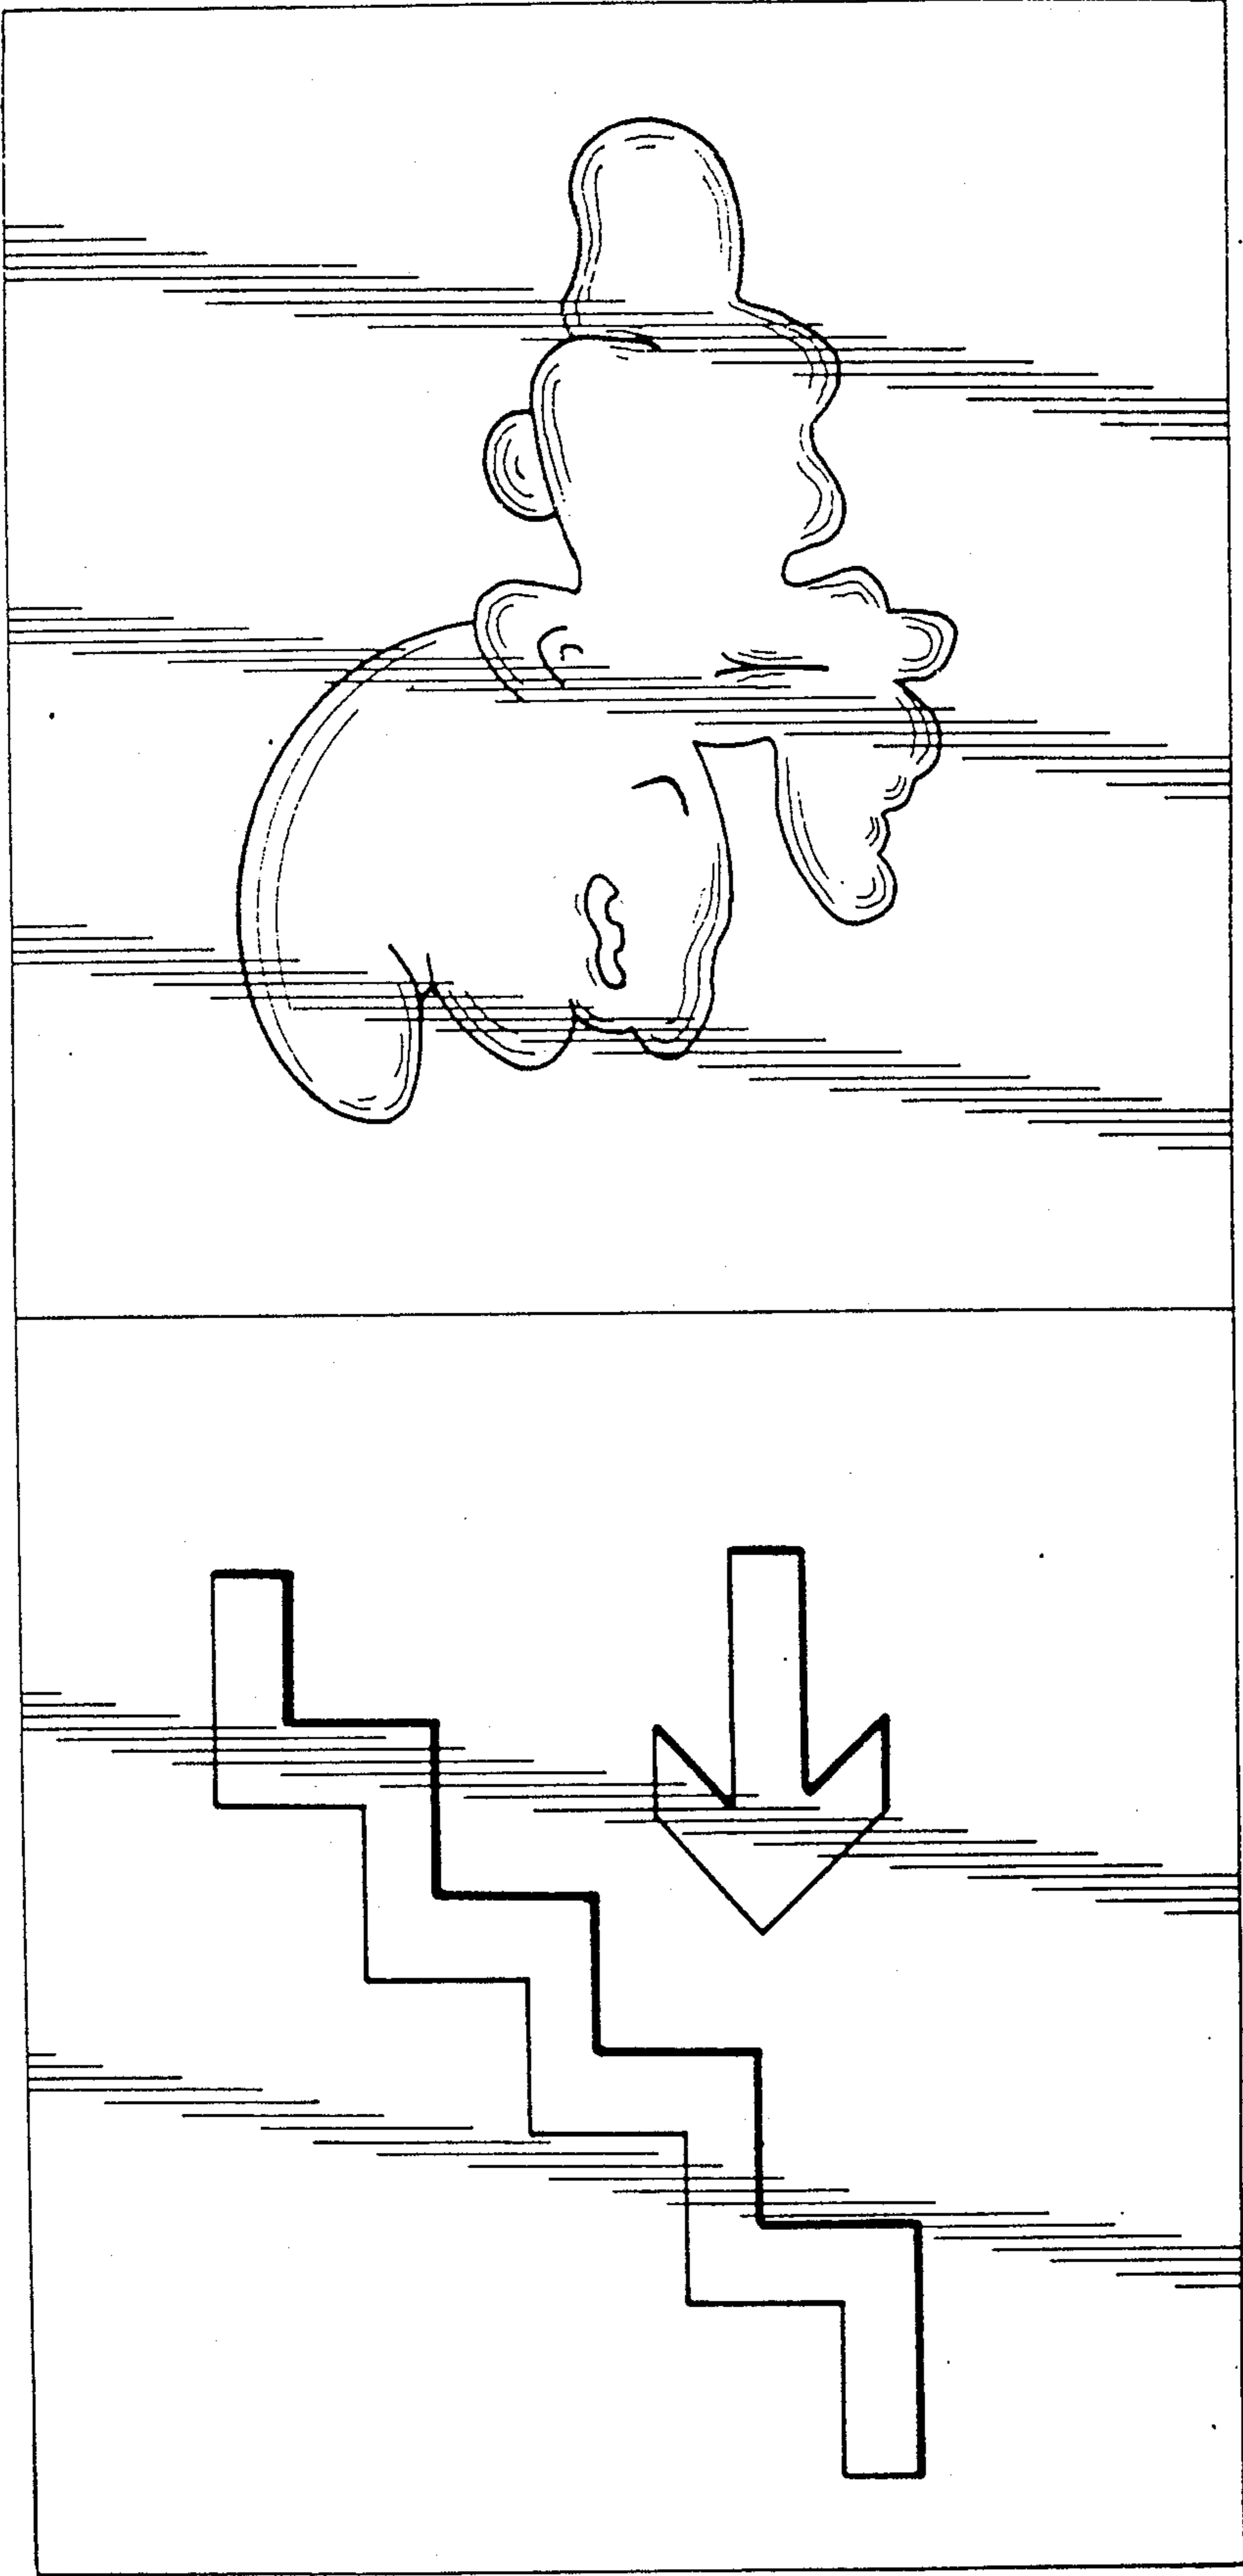

FIG. 1

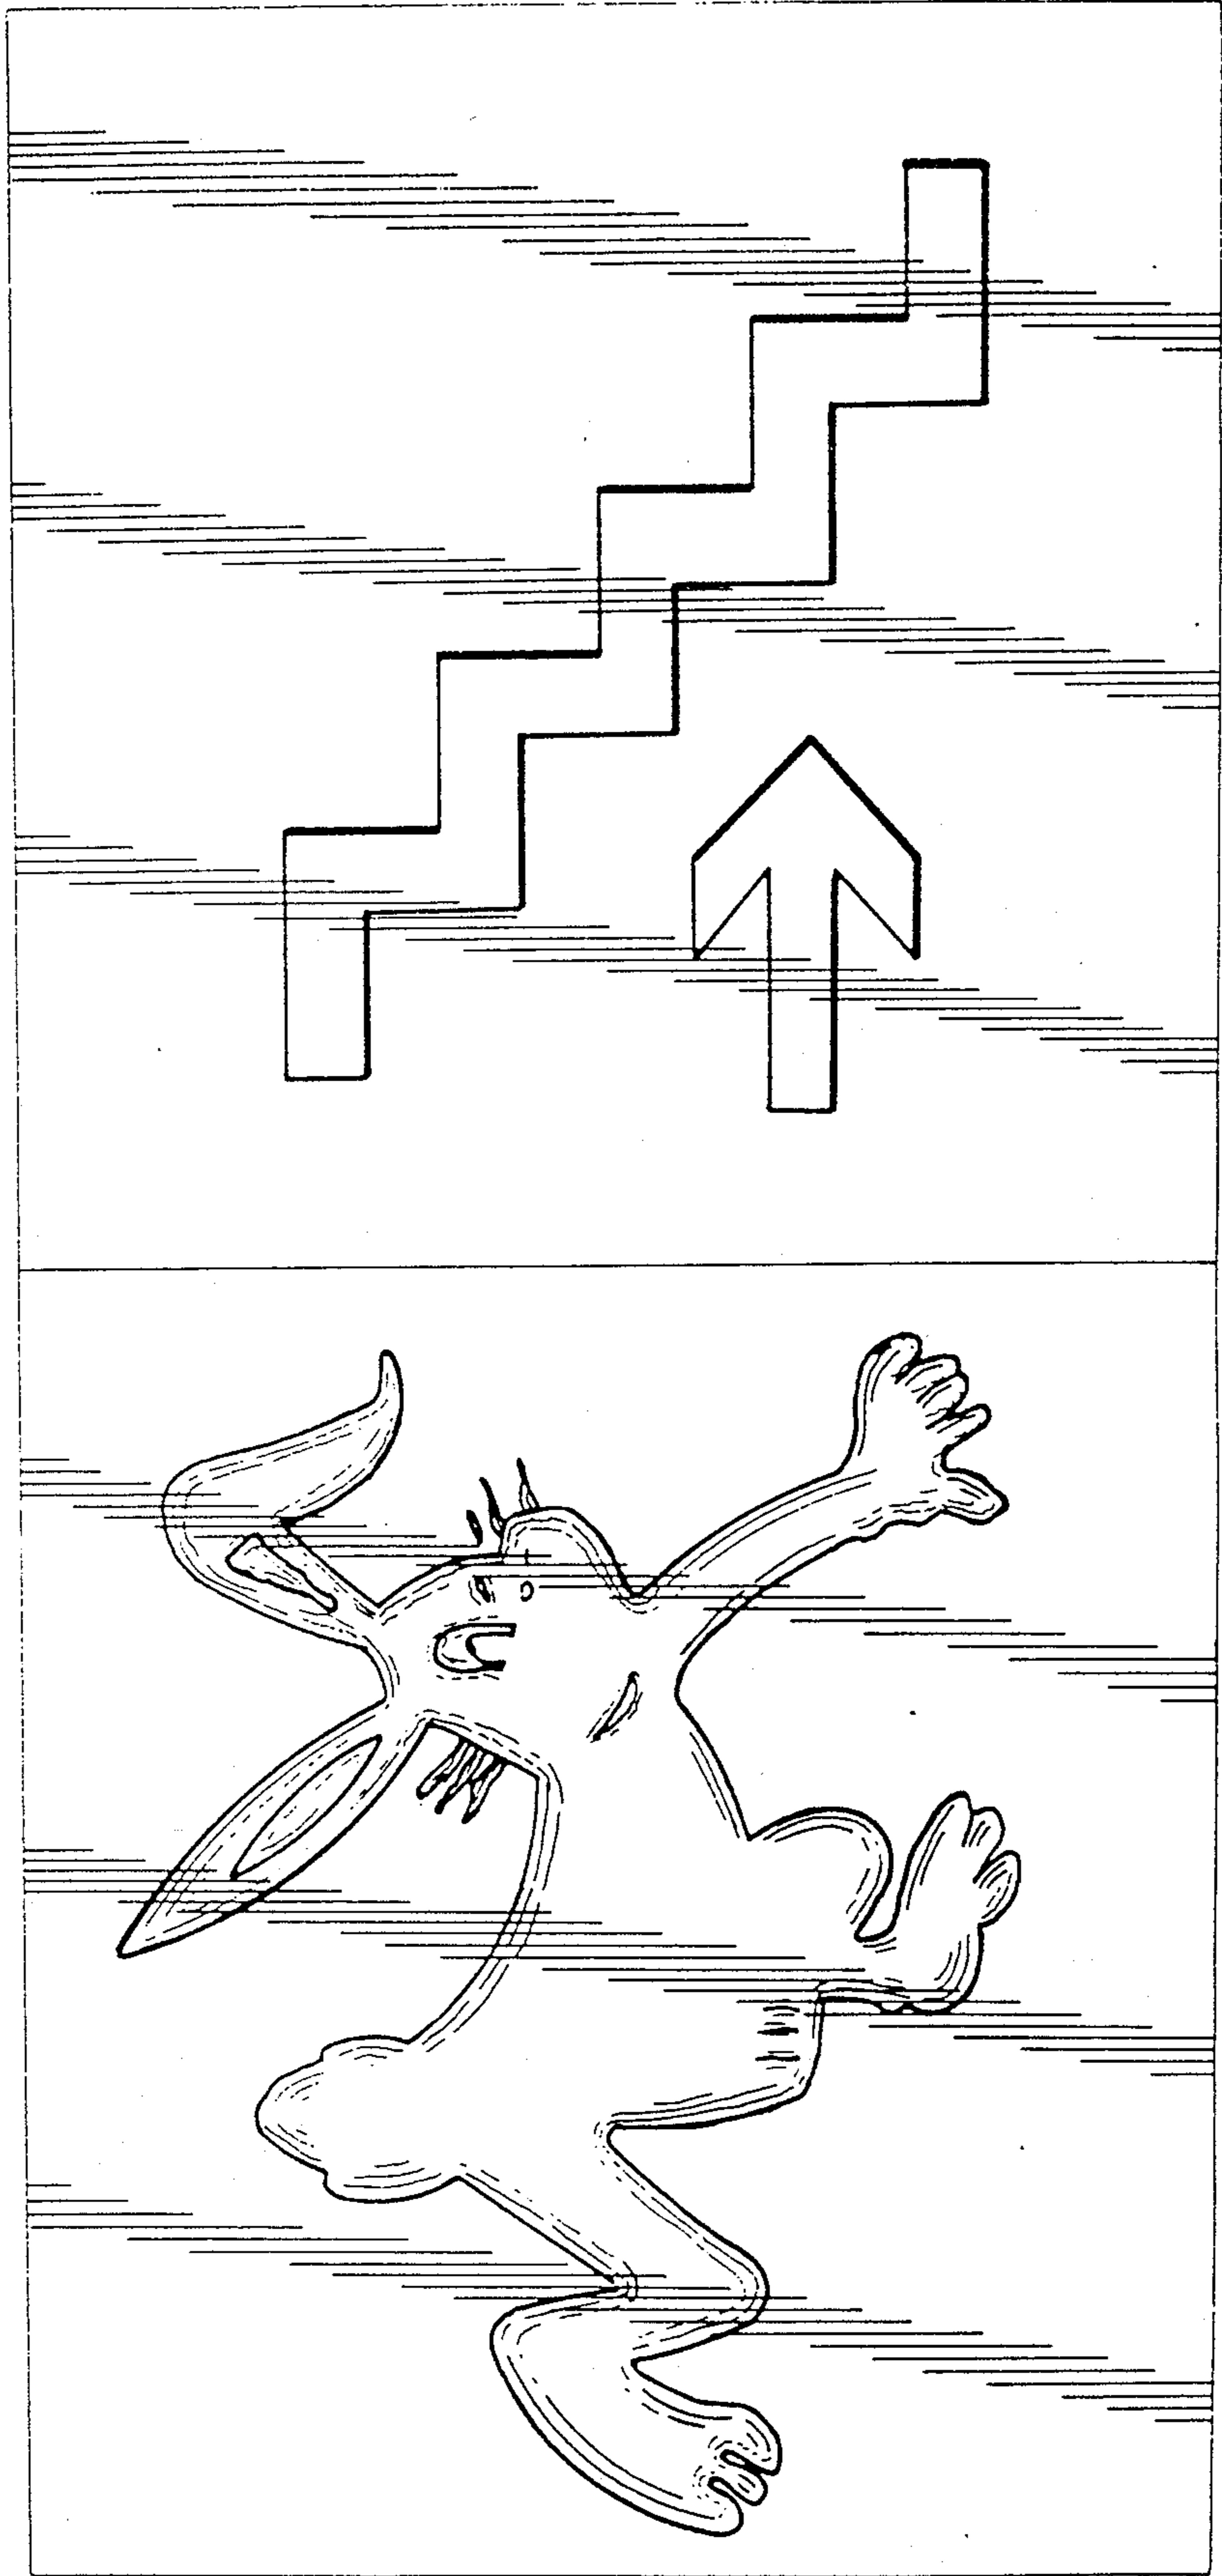

FIG. 2