[57] CLAIM

The ornamental design for a jewelry chain, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a top plan view of a jewelry chain showing my new design;

FIG. 2 is a left side elevation view thereof; the right side elevation view is substantially similar to the left side elevation view;

FIG. 3 is a bottom plan view thereof; and

A characteristic feature of my new design for said jewelry chain is a sequence of individual letters, where all the letters on the chain are the same, each letter being raised above the top surface of said chain. Another feature of my new design is a set of stripes, each set located between each two consecutive letters of said sequence of letters, each stripe being raised above and traversing said top surface of said chain, said letter T illustrated herein being representative of any letter of the alphabet.
