[57] CLAIM

The ornamental design for a ceramic flooring tile, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

The FIGURE is a front elevational view of a ceramic flooring tile showing my new design, the rear and side being plain and unornamented. The tile is of a conventional thickness.

It is a characterizing feature of the present invention that lines defined by unpatterned areas define a minor rectangle within a larger area of a rectangular tile and that speckled shading is applied in order to shade the minor rectangle oppositely to the major area of the tile.
