[57] CLAIM

The ornamental design for a clock, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a front elevational of my novel clock design having a basic arrowhead shape with a buffalo design in combination with a geometric design thereabove, showing the herringbone pattern and showing different shadings for the buffalo and the edges of the arrowhead to indicate different stitches, the geometric design being done, as indicated by the straight lines, by parallel stitching;

FIG. 2 is a side view showing the raised design of the buffalo, with the shoulder portion and the rear leg portion (outlined in solid lines in FIG. 1) projecting from the body of the buffalo;

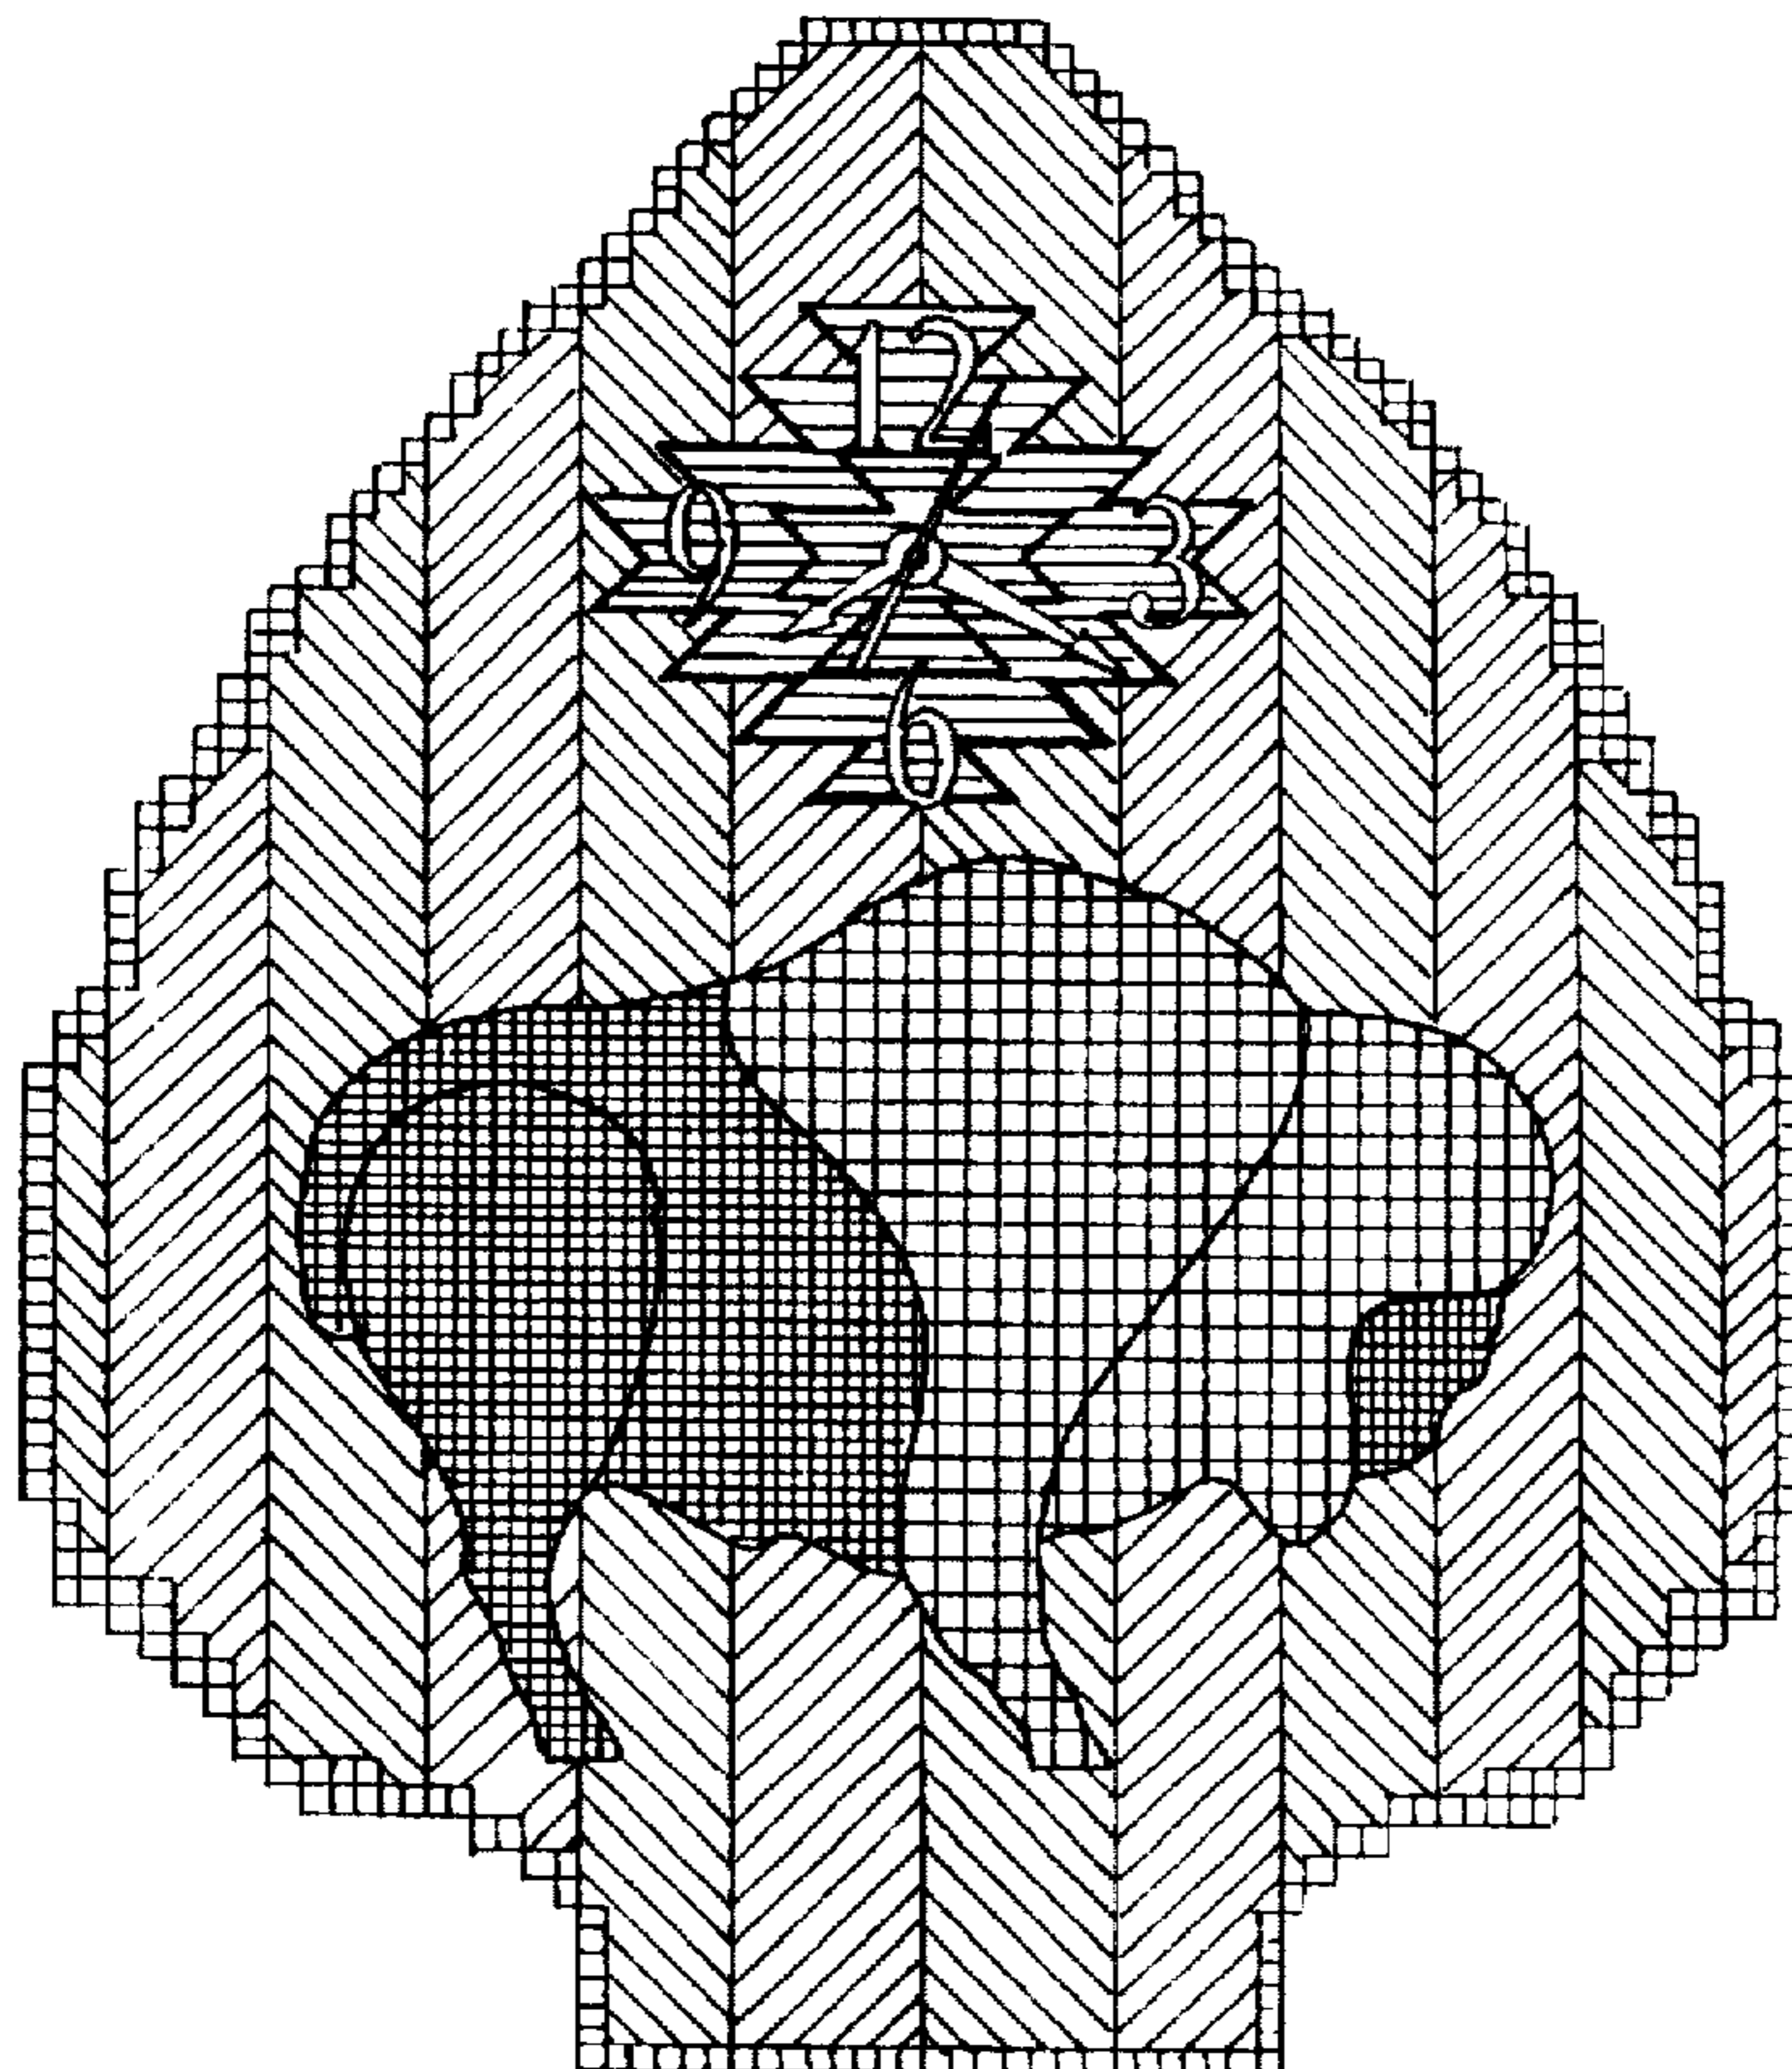

FIG. 3 is a bottom view;

FIG. 4 is a top view; and,

FIG. 5 is a rear view showing an opening for insertion of a battery and showing different shading for the edges to indicate a different stitch.

The clock design is shaded to indicate color variations which enhance the designs and patterns.
