[57] CLAIM

The ornamental design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is an elevation view from the front of our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna.

FIG. 3 is an isometric view from the back showing the back, top and left side of our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna.

FIG. 4 is a top plan view of our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna.

FIG. 5 is an elevation view from the left showing the left side of our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna. The right side of our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna is a mirror image of the left side shown.

FIG. 7 is an isometric view from the front showing the front, top and right side of our design for a second embodiment of the integrated transceiver and dish antenna, the only difference over the first embodiment being that the non-claimed features shown in broken lines on the front surface are shown in solid lines, and therefore make up a part of the claim in this embodiment; and,

FIG. 8 is an elevation view from the front showing our design for an integrated transceiver and dish antenna.
