FIG. 1 is a front elevational view of business paper showing my new design;

FIG. 2 is a rear elevational view thereof;

FIG. 3 is a front elevational view of a second embodiment of business paper showing my new design; and,

FIG. 4 is a rear elevational view of the second embodiment.

Each of FIGS. 1-4 includes a vertical broken line consisting of a shorter dash pattern extending from one longer outside edge to the opposite longer outside edge of the business paper and represents perforations.

Each of FIGS. 3 and 4 includes a vertical broken line consisting of a longer dash pattern extending from the one longer outside edge to the opposite longer outside edge of the business paper and represents fold lines where the business paper may be folded.

The remaining broken lines shown in the views, including the lettering, are for illustrative purposes only and form no part of the claimed article and are designated by a pattern consisting of a longer dash and two relatively shorter dashes. It is understood that the business paper is of no substantial thickness.
