(57) CLAIM

The ornamental design for a office clock, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a perspective of an embodiment of the clock according to the subject of the invention.

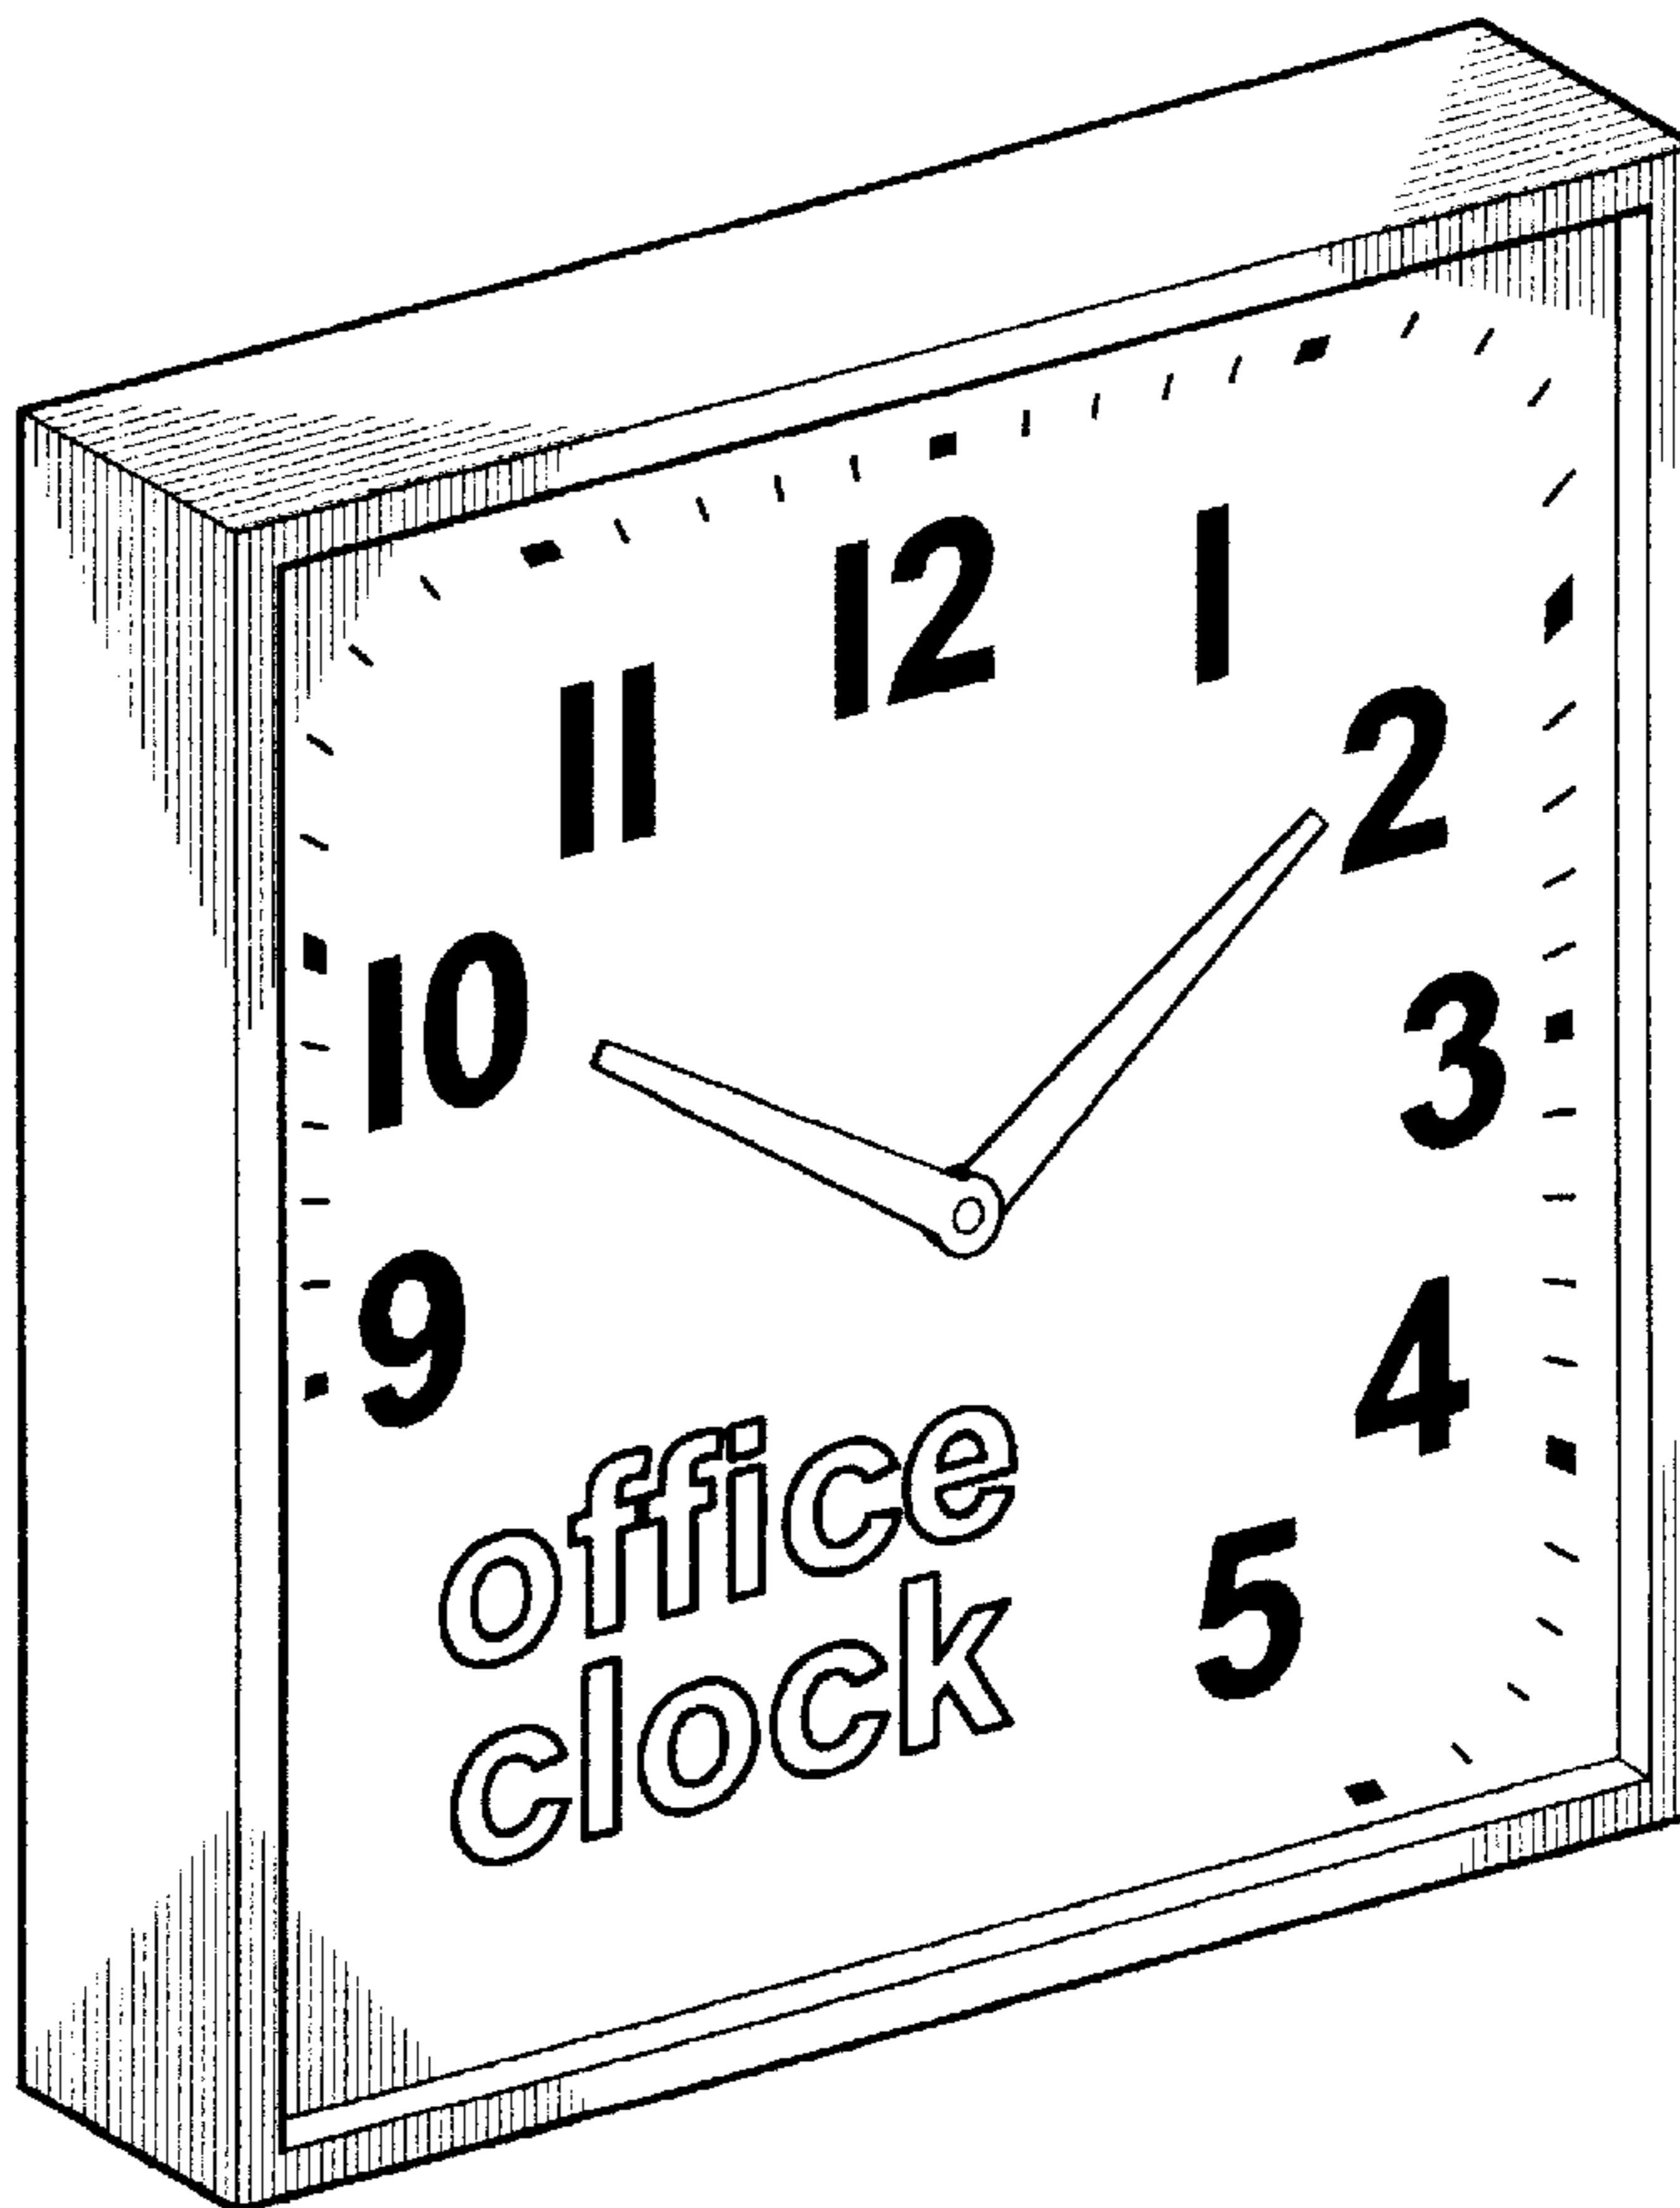

FIG. 2 is a top view of an embodiment of the clock according to the subject of the invention.

FIG. 3 is a front view of an embodiment of the clock according to the subject of the invention; and,

FIG. 4 is a rear view of an embodiment of the clock according to the subject of the invention.

The present invention relates to a new ornamental clock design. Specifically, the preferred embodiment of the present invention relates to a design for an office clock having a numerical representation ranging between the hours of nine (9) a.m. and five (5) p.m. The office clock includes the number one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), nine (9), ten (10), eleven (11), and twelve (12). This embodiment of the present invention does not include the number six (6), seven (7), and eight (8). The office clock includes the words "office clock" in replacement of the representative number six (6), seven (7), and eight (8).
