FIG. 1 is a front side view of a disposable towel, with broken lines depicting an unclaimed portion at the top of the towel, a broken line border between the shaded and unshaded areas depicting the unclaimed boundary of the design, and broken lines within the shaded area depicting claimed perforations upon the disposable towel.

FIG. 2 is a back side view of a disposable towel, with broken lines depicting an unclaimed portion of the towel and unclaimed roll of towels that are at the top of the view, a broken line border between the shaded and unshaded areas depicting the unclaimed boundary of the design, and broken lines within the shaded area depicting claimed perforations upon the disposable towel.

FIG. 3 is a left side view of the disposable towel, with broken lines depicting an unclaimed portion of the towel and unclaimed roll of towels.

FIG. 4 is a top side view of the disposable towel, with broken lines depicting the unclaimed roll of towels.

FIG. 5 is a bottom side view of the disposable towel, with broken lines depicting the unclaimed roll of towels; and,

FIG. 6 is an isometric view of the disposable towel, with broken lines depicting an unclaimed portion of the towel and unclaimed roll of towels at the top left, a broken line border between the shaded and unshaded areas depicting the unclaimed boundary of the design, and broken lines within the shaded area depicting claimed perforations upon the disposable towel.

The broken lines outside or on the border of the shaded areas form no part of the claimed design, but the broken lines within the shaded area of the disposable towel represent claimed perforations on the disposable towel.
