DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a perspective view of a retroreflective article, showing the new design.

FIG. 2 is a top plan view thereof;

FIG. 3 is a bottom plan view thereof;

FIG. 4 is a front elevational view thereof, the rear elevational view being the same as the front elevational view; and,

FIG. 5 is a left side elevational view thereof, the right side elevational view being the same as the right side elevational view.

The shading shown in FIGS. 1 and 2 is provided only to illustrate that the top surface is retroreflective. It is not indicative of texture or other surface artifacts. The shading shown in FIG. 3 is provided only to illustrate a flat surface.

It is certified that error appears in the above-identified patent and that said Letters Patent is hereby corrected as shown below:

Title Page

Column 2 (Description), Below "Description" insert -- The present invention is a new, original, and ornamental design for a retroreflective article. The retroreflective article can be applied to a variety of surfaces and materials that are desired to have a retroreflective appearance. The retroreflective article has a retroreflective top surface. The term "retroreflective article" refers to an article that reflects substantial quantities of incident light — which light otherwise would be reflected elsewhere — back towards the light source. --.
