(57) CLAIM

The ornamental design for a bed of nail garment for an animal, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a bottom-side view of a bed of nail garment meant to be worn by an animal, the circles on the garment's left and right panels representing groups of "nails" or short spikes meant to provide stimulation and massage to those of the animal's muscles in contact with the nails during use;

FIG. 2 is a top-side view of the bed of nail garment, the circles in the portions connecting the garment's left and right panels being button or snap type connectors meant to attach the bed of nail garment to an over-garment to be worn on top of the bed of nail garment;

FIG. 3 is a top-side view of the over-garment to be worn on top of the bed of nail garment, the over-garment having straps to strap it onto the animal;

FIG. 4 is a bottom-side view of the over-garment to be worn on top of the bed of nail garment, the circles running down the middle of the garment representing buttons, button-holes, or complementary portions of snap-type connectors such that the bottom-side of the over-garment may be connected to the top-side of the bed of nail garment;

FIG. 5 is a bottom-side view of a bed of nail garment for an animal meant to be worn by an animal, the bed of nail garment being fastened to the over-garment by the buttons or snap-type connectors;

FIG. 6 is a top-side view of the bed of nail garment for an animal, with the over-garment laid on top of, and fastened to, the bed of nail garment such that the fastened-together bed of nail garment may be strapped to, and thereby worn by, an animal.

FIG. 7 is a front-side view of the bed of nail garment shown in FIGS. 1 and 2, the groups of nails being positioned along the top of the drawing figure;

FIG. 8 is a rear-side view of the bed of nail garment shown in FIGS. 1 and 2, the groups of nails being positioned along the top of the drawing figure;

FIG. 9 is a left-side view of the bed of nail garment shown in FIGS. 1 and 2, the groups of nails being positioned along the right side of the drawing figure;

FIG. 10 is a right-side view of the bed of nail garment shown in FIGS. 1 and 2, the groups of nails being positioned along the left side of the drawing figure;

FIG. 11 is a front-side view of the over-garment shown in FIGS. 3 and 4, the straps being positioned along the top of the drawing figure;

FIG. 12 is a rear-side view of the over-garment shown in FIGS. 3 and 4, the straps being positioned along the top of the drawing figure;

FIG. 13 is a left-side view of the over-garment shown in FIGS. 3 and 4, the straps being positioned along the right side of the drawing figure;

FIG. 14 is a right-side view of the over-garment shown in FIGS. 3 and 4, the straps being positioned along the left side of the drawing figure;

FIG. 15 is a front-side view of the bed of nail garment for an animal shown in FIGS. 5 and 6, the groups of nails being positioned along the top of the drawing figure and the straps of the over-garment being positioned along the bottom of the drawing figure;

FIG. 16 is a rear-side view of the bed of nail garment for an animal shown in FIGS. 5 and 6, the groups of nails being positioned along the top of the drawing figure and the straps of the over-garment being positioned along the bottom of the drawing figure;

FIG. 17 is a left-side view of the bed of nail garment for an animal shown in FIGS. 5 and 6, the groups of nails being positioned along the left of the drawing figure and the straps of the over-garment being positioned along the right of the drawing figure; and,
