(57) CLAIM

The ornamental design for a display screen or portion thereof with graphical user interface, as shown and described.

DESCRIPTION

FIG. 1 is a front view of the first embodiment of a display screen or portion thereof with graphical user interface showing our new design in a first state, and a front view of the second embodiment of a display screen or portion thereof with graphical user interface showing our new design in a seventh state;

FIG. 2 is a front view of the first embodiment in a second state, and a front view of the second embodiment in a sixth state;

FIG. 3 is a front view of the first embodiment in a third state, and a front view of the second embodiment in a fifth state;

FIG. 4 is a front view of the first embodiment in a fourth state, and a front view of the second embodiment in a fourth state;

FIG. 5 is a front view of the first embodiment in a fifth state, and a front view of the second embodiment in a third state;

FIG. 6 is a front view of the first embodiment in a sixth state; and a front view of the second embodiment in a second state; and,

FIG. 7 is a front view of the first embodiment in a seventh state, and a front view of the second embodiment in a first state.

The broken line showing of a display screen or portion thereof is for the purpose of illustrating portions of the article and forms no part of the claimed design. The dot-dash broken line(s) define the bounds of the claimed design and form no part thereof.

The appearance of the graphical user interface transitions in a sequence from the first state to the seventh state in the first embodiment and from the seventh state to the first state in the second embodiment. The process or period in which one image transitions to another forms no part of the claimed design.
